78 Hour Viet Nam Cease Fire Ordered

Kidnap Link Dope Pushers in Await French Offer

SAIGON, Viet Nam AP--The Viet Cong kidnapped an American civilian official today outside the village of Trung Lap, about 25 miles north of Saigon, and marched him into the jungle, his hands in the air.

The missing man is Douglas Ramsey, 28, Boulder City, Nev. He is the assistant province representative of the U.S. mission for the area.

His driver, a South Vietnamese, came back and told American authorities they were traveling northeast from Cu Chi when they came under Viet Cong gunfire.

The driver said he stopped. He added that Ramsey got out and raised his hands in a surrender gesture. Several Viet Cong guerrillas marched him away. The driver was wounded slightly in the first ambush but was able to navigate on foot.

Trung Lap is in the middle of the sector where U.S. forces conducted their biggest search and destroy operation of the Vietnamese war -- Operation Crimp -- which has just been terminated.

A series of police investigations have led to the arrest of more than 30 students of a dozen U.S. colleges recently on illicit sex and narcotics charges. No definite connection between the various incidents was claimed and only a tiny minority of undergraduates was said to be involved. But police reported evidence that professional dope pushers were operating on the fringes of a number of campuses.

In Akron and Columbus, Ohio, 22 young persons were arrested last week in marijuana raids, including at least nine students or former students of Ohio State and Kent State universities. Police said they believed there had been big shipments of the narcotic weed into the area from Mexico.

In Norman, Okla., eight students and five former students of the University of Oklahoma were arrested on charges ranging from possession of narcotics to lewdness. The police bag in this raid on an apartment near the campus included two 18-year-old coeds.

Meanwhile, school officials said they were investigating a report that a 16-year-old girl was smuggled into an Oklahoma University athletic dormitory for a sexual orgy during the year-end holidays.

At the University of Michigan, six students and six persons described by police as "campus hangers-on" were accused of possession or sale of narcotics. One defendant, a 29-year-old painter, was said to have grown marijuana in a home garden plot three blocks from the campus.

A Syracuse University student returning from the holidays was nabbed by detectives who said his luggage contained marijuana, heroin, pills known as goof balls and a switchblade knife.

Two University of Massachusetts sophomores were charged with possession of harmful drugs and one was accused of selling them.

In Washington, U.S. narcotics agents acting on a tip from officials of American University arrested an 18-year-old freshman and charged him with selling marijuana.

A University of Miami student and his wife were picked up at Miami Airport by customs agents who said they were trying to smuggle in five pounds of marijuana from Jamaica.

Police arrested a dozen non-students in a recent narcotics raid near the University of Washington in Seattle.

LUXEMBOURG (AP) — Foreign ministers of the Common Market nations prepared to meet today amid expectation that France would offer to admit Britain to the European Economic Community in exchange for retention of the requirement that all major decisions by the group be unanimous.

France is ending a six-month boycott of Common Market negotiations with the other members — West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The French proposal was likely to meet stiff opposition. The other five countries say they are determined not to modify the Rome Treaty, the Common Market's constitution, for a vague French promise to admit Britain.

The five believe that France, which blackballed Britain three years ago, will press hard to keep its veto before turning the vague promise into a concrete invitation for Britain to join.

Under the eight-year-old Rome Treaty, the unanimity rule was to give way to a qualified majority vote starting Jan. 1. France was expected to ask for at least a postponement of the shift until the veto question is decided.

Observers say that Britain shares France's fear that the loss of each nation's veto could permit the Common Market to expand into a superstate with power to interfere with a nation's sovereignty.

Army Chief Weaver Clears Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Banking Committee voted unanimously today to approve President Johnson's nomination of Robert C. Weaver, New York Negro, to head the new Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Weaver, slated to be the first Negro ever to serve in the Cabinet, got a far friendlier reception than when he first appeared before the same group five years ago as the nominee to be federal housing administrator.

The 1961 hearings ran two days and four members of the committee voted against Weaver with 11 in favor. Today's hearing lasted less than an hour.

The committee also confirmed unanimously the nomination of Prof. Robert C. Wood of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to be undersecretary in the department.

If all goes as expected, Weaver, 58, will become the first Negro member of the Cabinet.

He was scheduled to appear before the committee for questioning along with Prof. Robert C. Wood, nominated by Johnson as undersecretary.

Committee members said they wanted to ask both men about their plans for dealing with massive problems confronting the nation's cities.

Pressure Increases On Public Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The public schools have been the target of charges of communism or subversion in the past three years, a commission of the National Education Association reported today.

The NEA's Commission on Professional Rights and Responsibilities said the John Birch Society was the No. 1 troublemaker. However, the Birch Society also appeared as No. 20 on the list of groups helpful to the schools.

The commission report said there has been an increase in censorship or criticism of books used in the schools since its last survey in 1962.

The report was prepared for the 18th annual conference on "Critics and the Schools." It summarized the response to a questionnaire of nearly 15,000 teachers and other educators.

The survey showed 56 per cent of the local reporting noted a damaging effect from destructive criticism, compared with 49 per cent in 1962. The percentage of schools reporting "much damage" rose from 11 to 16 per cent in the same period.

Ninety per cent of criticism in the form of charges of communism or subversion in the schools, the report said, came from three states — California, Michigan and Ohio.

These three states also reported the greatest activity by right-wing groups in connection with book criticism and censorship, the report said.

Without distinguishing between the types of pressure and harassment, the report listed the chief trouble-makers in this order: The John Birch Society, teachers unions (which compete bitterly with the NEA for teacher memberships), citizens' committees, Chambers of Commerce, American Legion, Dan Smoot Reports, and Parent-Teacher Associations.

However, on the list of those groups which had been most helpful, the PTAs were away out in front, followed in order by Chambers of Commerce, American Association of University Women, American Legion, business and professional women's clubs and citizens' committees.

The report said right-wing groups, parents and religious groups led the attack on school books.

Holiday Will Be Observed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, today ordered all American troops to cease firing for 78 hours starting at noon Thursday in observance of the Vietnamese lunar New Year holiday, Tet.

Westmoreland's order seconded the decision of the South Vietnamese government to halt fighting during the national celebration. Similar instructions went to South Korean, Australian and New Zealand troops fighting alongside the Vietnamese and Americans.

The truce more than doubles the 30-hour cease-fire observed by Allied forces during the Christmas holiday. But it falls 18 hours short of the Tet truce proclaimed by the Viet Cong. They have promised not to attack from 11 p.m. Wednesday to 11 p.m. Sunday, a total of four days.

The times are Saigon time, or 9 a.m. Wednesday to 9 a.m. Sunday, CST. The U.S.-Vietnamese cease-fire will begin at 10 a.m. CST.

Westmoreland ordered a cease-fire from noon Thursday to 6 p.m. Sunday. It was assumed the Allies agreed on different hours to avoid giving the impression they were simply reacting to the Communist proposal.

Westmoreland's order said: "All U.S. forces in the republic will not fire at or on the enemy except in self defense."

There was no sign in the Saigon sector of any letup in fighting before the holiday, although elsewhere in the country military activities continued at a slow pace.

In a lightning stroke, a Viet Cong company attacked a government infantry and armor school at Thu Duc 10 miles north of Saigon at 1 a.m. While one part of the guerrilla force fired two mortar shells as a diversion, another hit part of the compound with automatic weapons.

The guerrillas pierced the barbed wire of the officers' candidate school and raked the billets, killing five wives and three children of Vietnamese officer candidates in their beds. Three other children were wounded.

Armored troops fought back and killed 10 of the Viet Cong, a government spokesman said. These bodies were left behind, but the fleeing Viet Cong were seen to be carrying other dead or wounded.

Twenty-six civilians were killed and four were wounded when a busload of civilians hit a Viet Cong mine on the road from Moc Hoa to Cai Lay, near Kien Tuong, 35 miles south of the capital.

Northwest of Saigon, a Viet Cong attack on a U.S. troop convoy backfired. Supported by planes roaring in over the treetops, the Americans turned the bitter fight 20 miles northwest of Saigon into a drubbing for the guerrillas.

Huge Mass of Arctic Air Strikes U. S. Midsection

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A huge mass of Arctic air hit the country's midsection today and spread bitter cold temperatures from the Rockies to New England and deep into the South.

The Pacific coast a s t region, southern portions of Texas and Florida and a thin band along the Gulf Coast were about the only areas with temperatures above freezing.

The sharpest chill was in the northern Plains, where it was 27 below zero at Bismarck, N.D., and 19 at Huron, S.D. But the far - ranging cold snap also pushed the mercury down to 6 above zero at Richmond, Va., and 18 at Asheville, N.C.

Southern California was still experiencing strong winds after Sunday's buffeting of up to 80 miles an hour. Some $250,000 in damage was reportedly inflicted on boats at Avalon Harbor on Catalina Island, some 20 miles off Los Angeles.

One man was missing and presumed drowned in the aftermath of 65-mile-an-hour winds and 18-to-20-foot waves that struck Avalon Harbor. Six persons were injured as 14 pleasure boats were smashed.

Lasters Changes Venue

POPLAR BLUFF -- William E. "Bill" Lasters, accused of robbing the Fisk State Bank Dec. 27, was granted a change of venue today by Butler County Magistrate Court Judge F. M. Kinder and a preliminary hearing was scheduled for Jan. 25 before Judge William Dodd of Ripley County.

Lasters' preliminary hearing was originally set to be held today before Kinder.

He is charged with robbing the Fisk State Bank of $5,914 on the afternoon of Dec. 27.

Presently he is out of jail on a $25,000 bond.

He lives at 415 Coleman St., in Sikeston.

Another Cold Night in State

KANSAS CITY AP -- Missouri is in for another cold night, but the weatherman says things will be a little warmer Tuesday.

The lows Tuesday morning will be in the 0 to 10 above range in the northwest and around 10 in the rest of the state. During the day the mercury is expected to hit around 30, with higher readings in the northwest.

11 Aboard in 2-Plane Collision

ALMERIA, Spain (AP) — Two U.S. Air Force jet planes with a total of 11 crewmen aboard crashed today after a collision in the air while refueling.

U.S. Air Force officials said five men had been rescued.

The headquarters of the 16th U.S. Air Force near Madrid said the planes were a B52 bomber from a base in the United States and a KC135 jet tanker based at Moron Airport, near Sevilla, Spain.

One of the two planes crashed on land, the other into the Mediterranean.

Children on their way to school near Almeria said they heard a loud explosion in the sky high overhead, then saw smoke clouds above them. Later four parachutes were seen descending off the coast.

U.S. Air Force sources said the B52 carried seven men and the big tanker a crew of four. Rescue planes reported they spotted a big dye marker about a third of a mile off the coast. Pilots said it appeared too large to have come from one man's survival pack.

The Air Force said the B52 came from the 68th Bombardment Wing at Seymour Johnson Air Base, N.C. The tanker was from the 910th Air Refueling Unit at Bergstrom, Tex., but was temporarily stationed in Spain.

$15 Million Post Office Beef - Up in Works

WASHINGTON AP -- The chairman of the Senate and House Post Office Committees predicted today Congress will stamp "approved" on a $15-million administration package which would beef up postal service in thousands of American communities.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., and Rep. Tom Murray, D-Tenn., said in separate interviews they favored moves announced Saturday to restore parcel post and post office window service eliminated in 1964 economy move.

"This is just the first step" in administration efforts to improve postal service, Monroney said.

Congressional approval is necessary because of the $15-million annual cost of the increased service.

Saturday's announcement said President Johnson has approved a recommendation by Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien that six-day-a-week parcel post service be restored in 6,091 communities with populations over 3,000. Since 1964 one day each week has been necessary because of the $15-million annual cost of the increased service.

skipped for deliveries in these cities except where postmen used motor vehicles to deliver parcels.

The other move will be increased window service at night and on weekends in nearly 15,000 post offices. Postmasters will also be authorized to resume Saturday sales of money orders.

Assistant White House news secretary Joseph Latini, announcing the plans, said improved efficiency would reduce the postal deficit, estimated at $400 million this fiscal year, despite the $15-million cost of the improved service.

Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, Who Understood GI's, Dies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Gen. Courtney H. Hodges understood GI problems because he had been a GI himself.

"I love the American soldier — I really feel a very strong sentiment about him," Hodges once said. "He is my work. And I don't think he has any equal."

Hodges rose from the ranks to command the U.S. 1st Army which liberated Paris in a victorious drive through France and Germany in World War II.

The four-star general died Sunday at Brooke Army Medical Center of a heart attack. He was 79. He had lived here since his retirement in 1949.

Hodges dropped out of West Point after one year because of trouble with geometry. He got a job in a Georgia grocery store but quit in 1906 and enlisted in the regular army at Ft. McPherson, Ga. He was commissioned in 1909.

As an officer, he enjoyed democratic relations with his troops.

"We are a democracy and we have a democratic Army. That is one of our great strong points," he said.

His Army career spanned more than 43 years, including action during the Mexican expedition of Gen. John J. Pershing, World War I, World War II, and postwar service as commanding general of the 1st Army area at Governor's Island, N.Y.

Hodges took command of the 1st Army Aug. 1, 1944, from Gen. Omar N. Bradley. The 1st Army was the first to reach Paris, and the first to enter Germany in World War II, Sept. 11, 1944, after liberating Liege, Belgium, Sept. 2. It was the first to cross the Rhine and the first to make contact with elements of the Soviet army in Germany.

The 1st Army also captured Aachen, Germany, took part in the bloody battle of Hurtgen Forest in November 1944, and after two weeks of furious fighting, broke through in the Battle of the Bulge. The 1st Army crossed the Rhine at Cologne March 7, 1945.

After the break-through at the Remagen Bridge, the 1st Army under Hodges captured 300,000 Germans in the Ruhr pocket. He was promoted to four-star general April 15, 1945.

Hodges and his staff went to the Pacific theater and witnessed the surrender of Japan aboard the battleship Missouri.

He was born Jan. 5, 1887, at Perry, Ga., the son of a newspaper publisher.

Six Treated For Emergencies

Six persons were admitted to the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital Saturday and Sunday:

Jimmy Nolen, St. Louis, car accident; Alma Cole, fell on concrete; Judy Nolen, St. Louis, car accident; Jacob Eubank, Illinois, hit on head; Barbara White, rammed wrist through door; Dessie Boehls, Parma, car accident.

GOP Reply Tonight

WASHINGTON AP -- Congress gets another "State of the Union" message tonight — this time from the Republicans.

Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen and House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford will deliver their party's answer to President Johnson's message of last week.

Radio and television networks will carry the taped 30-minute Dirksen - Ford reply, which has been billed as realistic look at the state of the union.

The interviews will be telecast by CBS at 9:30 p.m. central standard time, and by NBC and ABC at 10:30 p.m. central standard time.

The two leaders are expected to call for close scrutiny, and perhaps cutbacks, in domestic spending.

16 Injured in Weekend Bootheel Traffic Accidents

Sixteen persons were injured in traffic accidents over the weekend.

The state patrol reported that three were injured Sunday and 13 Saturday.

The Sunday accidents:

A single high speed car accident on business route in Holland at 2:45 a.m., caused Freddie M. Brumley, 21, Barling, Ark., to lose control of his 1953 Oldsmobile.

The vehicle ran off of the highway, down an embankment and turned over. Brumley received fractures of the right ankle, left ankle and left leg, and right elbow. He was taken to a Hayti hospital.

Eight miles west of Bernie on highway U at 3:30 p.m., a single vehicle accident involved a 1965 Chevrolet pickup truck driven by Dessie A. Boehls, 38, Parma. The driver received a possible neck and chest injury and was taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

Boehls lost control when the truck struck loose gravel and went into a ditch.

In an accident involving three cars at 1:50 p.m., four miles east of Cape Girardeau, John F. Fitzgerald, 67, Webster Groves, driving a 1964 Buick, received a broken arm, while traveling in a wrong lane of a four-lane highway.

A 1964 Pontiac, driven by Donald Belt, 33, Cape Girardeau, and a 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Leo Welker, 35, Cape Girardeau, came over a hill in approaching the Fitzgerald car. The Belt car went into a ditch to avoid a crash, and the Welker car struck the Pontiac head on.

Fitzgerald was taken to the St. Francis hospital in Cape Girardeau.

The Saturday accidents:

Four were hurt at 5:15 a.m. at the state line I-55 interchange when a 1964 Cadillac, driven by Henryetta Griffith, 52, Chicago, went out of control over the ramp, crossed highway 61, ran off the road and overturned.

The driver received a fractured collarbone while three passengers, Alice Spears received cuts and bruises; Freddie Higgins, a bruised left eye and shoulder; Shirley Stevens, 58, a fractured skull and possible back injury. All are from Chicago.

They were taken to the Pemiscot County Memorial hospital in Hayti.

One mile south of Lutesville on highway 51 at 1:20 p.m., Drew Huff, 2, Lutesville, received a head injury, when a 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Robert Cooper, 70, Lutesville was struck by a 1954 Ford driven by Chauncey Ricketts, 72, Lutesville, as he came in from a side street.

The collision caused the Chevrolet to strike two parked cars. Ricketts was arrested for failure to yield the right-of-way.

At 8:15 p.m., four miles north of Charleston, a three-car collision caused injury to Jimmy Lee Nolen, 19, St. Louis, driver of a 1962 Comet, who received cuts on his scalp, cheek and elbow. A passenger in the car, Judy Nolen, St. Louis, received cuts on the face and right shoulder.

A 1963 Chevrolet truck, driven by Homer Williams, 58, Couch, attempted to turn into a service station, when he collided with the Comet, which struck a 1958 Chevrolet, driven by Lee Davis, 39, route three, Charleston.

At 11:15 p.m. on route 4 four miles west of Dutchtown, a 1964 Ford, driven by August Eggmann, 24, Whitewater, speeded around a curve, left the road and turned over. He received a dislocated shoulder and was taken to the Southeast hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Jesse Pounds, 38, route three, Charleston, received possible internal injuries when his 1955 Mercury was struck by a 1962 Comet, driven by Roy Blumenberg, 51, East Prairie, as the Mercury stopped to make a left turn on highway 60 half mile west of Wyatt, at 2:15 p.m.

At 8:30 a.m. in Fruitland, a 1961 Chevrolet pickup, driven by James Hahs, 50, Jackson rural, pulled from a parking lot and struck a 1964 Plymouth, driven by Russell Melton, 42, Berkeley. Two passengers in the Melton car, Cynthia Melton, and Anita Melton, received head injuries and bruises and were taken to the Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau.

The truck driver said that his view was obstructed by another vehicle.

In an accident four miles south of Senath on a township road, at 1:15 p.m., a 1965 Ford, driven by Regina Hinesley, 16, Hornersville, lost control in loose gravel, left the road, struck an embankment and overturned.

Sharon Christian, 16, a passenger, received a cut finger, was treated at the Dunklin County Memorial hospital and released.

Two-Fire Alarm

FRANKFORT, Ky. -- En route to one blaze, city firemen had to stop and put out another fire right in front of them.

The fire truck's engine ignited.

Dry powder was used to extinguish the flames and the firemen continued their run.

Contributions of Jaycees Diminish

RENSELAER, Ind. AP -- Mayor Emmet Eger proclaimed this as Junior Chamber of Commerce Week in Rensselaer.

He urged citizens to recognize the Jaycees for their civic contributions.

The project got off to a bad start. Someone broke into the Jaycee office over the weekend and took all the money they could find.

Kennedys Ski Down Snowy Slopes

MILTON, Mass. AP -- Nineteen months ago Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., suffered a broken back in a plane crash. One never would have known it Sunday.

Kennedy, an accomplished skier before the accident, returned to the sport without apparent strain. He flawlessly maneuvered down the slopes at the Blue Hills ski area.

And in Gstaad, Switzerland, Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her daughter, Caroline, enjoyed a Sunday afternoon of undisturbed skiing. Unlike Saturday, Mrs. Kennedy was not bothered by anyone and no one seemed to recognize her. But she was on a different mountain.

Put on Transit Strike

NEW YORK AP -- The Commerce and Industry Association estimates that the 12-day subway and bus strike cost New Yorkers a billion dollars and that "less than 25 per cent will be recovered."

The major business group urged that the 15-cent transit fare be increased to help pay for the contract settlement that ended the transit tieup last Thursday.

The cost of new two-year contracts between the city Transit Authority and the striking Transport Workers Union and Amalgamated Transit Union, both AFL-CIO, has been estimated variously between $52 million and $70 million.

Nine Fishermen Believed in Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Nine shrimp fishermen from Tampa, Fla., were presumed to be in the custody of the Cuban government today after one of their three boats ran aground in Cuban territorial waters.

The U.S. Coast Guard said the 73-foot Charles Singleton ran aground off northwest Cuba Sunday and her two sister boats — Penny Singleton and Mark E. Singleton — were directed to a Cuban port by the Cuban Coast Guard.

All three vessels, each carrying a captain and two crewmen, were en route from Tampa to Nicaragua. The boats were built in the last year or so and bought by the Singleton Shrimp Co. in Tampa for $250,000.

Christine Keeler Leaves Husband

LONDON AP -- Christine Keeler -- the party girl whose affair with former Defense Minister John Profumo rocked the British government -- has separated from her husband after three months of marriage despite the fact she is expecting a baby, her lawyer said today.

Christine, 23, married engineer James Levermore, 24, in a civil ceremony last October at Reading.

78 Hour Viet Nam Cease Fire Ordered

Kidnap Link Dope Pushers in Await American College Raid Series Official

SAIGON, Viet Nam AP--The Viet Cong kidnapped an American civilian official today outside the village of Trung Lap, about 25 miles north of Saigon, and marched him into the jungle, his hands in the air.

The missing man is Douglas Ramsey, 28, Boulder City, Nev. He is the assistant province representative of the U.S. mission for the area.

His driver, a South Vietnamese, came back and told American authorities they were traveling northeast from Cu Chi when they came under Viet Cong gunfire.

The driver said he stopped. He added that Ramsey got out and raised his hands in a surrender gesture. Several Viet Cong guerrillas marched him away. The driver was wounded slightly in the first ambush fire but was able to navigate on foot.

Trung Lap is in the middle of the sector where U.S. forces conducted their biggest search and destroy operation of the Vietnamese war -- Operation Crimp -- which has just been terminated.

A series of police investigations have led to the arrest of more than 30 students of a dozen U.S. colleges recently on illicit sex and narcotics charges.

No definite connection between the various incidents was claimed and only a tiny minority of undergraduates was said to be involved. But police reported evidence that professional dope pushers were operating on the fringes of a number of campuses.

In Akron and Columbus, Ohio, 22 young persons were arrested last week in marijuana raids, including at least nine students or former students of Ohio State and Kent State universities. Police said they believed there had been big shipments of the narcotic weed into the area from Mexico.

In Norman, Okla., eight students and five former students of the University of Oklahoma were arrested on charges ranging from possession of narcotics to lewdness. The police bag in this raid on an apartment near the campus included two 18-year-old coeds.

Meanwhile, school officials said they were investigating a report that a 16-year-old girl was smuggled into an Oklahoma University athletic dormitory for a sexual orgy during the year-end holidays.

At the University of Michigan, six students and six persons described by police as "campus hangers-on" were accused of possession or sale of narcotics. One defendant, a 29-year-old painter, was said to have grown marijuana in a home garden plot three blocks from the campus.

A Syracuse University student returning from the holidays was nabbed by detectives who said his luggage contained marijuana, heroin, pills known as goof balls and a switchblade knife.

Two University of Massachusetts sophomores were charged with possession of harmful drug pills and one was accused of selling them.

In Washington, U.S. narcotics agents acting on a tip from officials of American University arrested an 18-year-old freshman and charged him with selling marijuana.

A University of Miami student and his wife were picked up at Miami Airport by customs agents who said they were trying to smuggle in five pounds of marijuana from Jamaica.

Police arrested a dozen non-students in a recent narcotics raid near the University of Washington in Seattle.

French Offer

LUXEMBOURG (AP) -- Foreign ministers of the Common Market nations prepared to meet today amid expectation that France would offer to admit Britain to the European Economic Community in exchange for retention of the requirement that all major decisions by the group be unanimous.

France is ending a six-month boycott of Common Market negotiations with the other members -- West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The French proposal was likely to meet stiff opposition. The other five countries say they are determined not to modify the Rome Treaty, the Common Market's constitution, for a vague French promise to admit Britain.

The five believe that France, which blackballed Britain three years ago, will press hard to keep its veto before turning the vague promise into a concrete invitation for Britain to join.

Under the eight-year-old Rome Treaty, the unanimity rule was to give way to a qualified majority vote starting last Jan. 1. France was expected to ask for at least a postponement of the shift until the veto question is decided.

Observers say that Britain shares France's fear that the loss of each nation's veto could permit the Common Market to expand into a superstate with power to interfere with a nation's sovereignty.

Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, Who Understood GPs, Dies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) -- Gen. Courtney H. Hodges understood GI problems because he had been a GI himself.

"I love the American soldier -- I really feel a very strong sentiment about him," Hodges once said. "He is my work and I don't think he has any equal."

Hodges rose from the ranks to command the U.S. 1st Army which liberated Paris in a victorious drive through France and Germany in World War II.

The four-star general died Sunday at Brooke Army Medical Center of a heart attack. He was 79. He had lived here since his retirement in 1949.

Hodges dropped out of West Point after one year because of trouble with geometry. He got a job in a Georgia grocery store but quit in 1906 and enlisted in the regular army at Ft. McPherson, Ga. He was commissioned in 1909.

As an officer, he enjoyed democratic relations with his troops.

"We are a democracy and we have a democratic Army. That is one of our great strong points," he said.

His Army career spanned more than 43 years, including action during the Mexican expedition of Gen. John J. Persh-

Army Chief In Nigeria Takes Over

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) -- Nigeria's Army commander emerged as the dominant figure in Africa's most populous nation today following an unsuccessful coup attempt by mutinous elements in the armed forces.

Maj. Gen. Aguiyi Ironsi declared himself temporary head of the federal government and chief of all armed forces Sunday night and suspended key provisions of the Nigerian constitution.

He also suspended the nation's top civilian officials, including Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, President Azikiwe Nnamdi, the heads of Nigeria's four regions and the federal and regional parliaments.

Balewa was kidnapped during the coup attempt with his finance minister, Chief Festus Okotie Ebo. The rebels are believed holding them hostage. Ironsi's troops were reported searching for them.

Troops loyal to Ironsi guarded government buildings and other key points in Lagos and manned five roadblocks between the airport and the capital.

Remnants of the rebel force appeared to be on the run.

Six Treated For Emergencies

Six persons were admitted to the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community Hospital Saturday and Sunday.

Weaver Clears Group

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Senate Banking Committee voted unanimously today to approve President Johnson's nomination of Robert C. Weaver, New York Negro, to head the new Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Weaver, slated to be the first Negro ever to serve in the Cabinet, got a far friendlier reception than when he first appeared before the same group five years ago as the nominee to be federal housing administrator.

The 1961 hearings ran two days and four members of the committee voted against Weaver with 11 in favor. Today's hearing lasted less than an hour.

The committee also confirmed unanimously the nomination of Prof. Robert C. Wood of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to be undersecretary in the department.

If all goes as expected, Weaver, 58, will become the first Negro member of the Cabinet.

He was scheduled to appear before the committee for questioning along with Prof. Robert C. Wood, nominated by Johnson as undersecretary.

Committee members said they wanted to ask both men about their plans for dealing with massive problems confronting the nation's cities.

GOP Reply Tonight

WASHINGTON AP -- Congress gets another "State of the Union" message tonight -- this time from the Republicans.

Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen and House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford will deliver their party's answer to President Johnson's message of last week.

Radio and television networks will carry the taped 30-minute Dirksen - Ford reply, which has been billed as realistic look at the state of the union.

The interviews will be telecast by CBS at 9:30 p.m. central standard time, and by NBC and ABC at 10:30 p.m. central standard time.

The two leaders are expected to call for close scrutiny, and perhaps cutbacks, in domestic spending.

TWO-FIRE ALARM

FRANKFORT, Ky. -- En route to one blaze, city firemen had to stop and put out another fire right in front of them.

The fire truck's engine ignited.

Dry powder was used to extinguish the flames and the firemen continued their run.

In Cape Girardeau, Jesse Pounds, 38, route three, Charleston, received possible internal injuries when his 1955 Mercury was struck by a 1962 Comet, driven by Roy Blumenberg, 51, East Prairie, as the Mercury stopped to make a left turn on highway 60 half mile west of Wyatt, at 2:15 p.m.

At 8:30 a.m. in Fruitland, a 1961 Chevrolet pickup, driven by James Hahs, 50, Jackson rural, pulled from a parking lot and struck a 1964 Plymouth, driven by Russell Melton, 42, Berkeley. Two passengers in the Melton car, Cynthia Melton, and Anita Melton, received head injuries and bruises and were taken to the Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau.

The truck driver said that his view was obstructed by another vehicle.

In an accident four miles south of Senath on a township road, at 1:15 p.m. a 1965 Ford, driven by Regina Hinesley, 16, Hornersville, lost control in loose gravel, left the road, struck an embankment and overturned.

Sharon Christian, 16, a passenger, received a cut finger, was treated at the Dunklin County Memorial hospital and released.

Pressure Increases On Public Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The public schools have been the target during the past three years, a commission of the National Education Association reported today.

The NEA's Commission on Professional Rights and Responsibilities said the John Birch Society was the No. 1 troublemaker. However, the Birch Society also appeared as No. 20 on the list of groups helpful to the schools.

The commission report said there has been an increase in censorship or criticism of books used in the schools since its last survey in 1962.

The report was prepared for the 18th annual conference on "Critics and the Schools." It summarized the response to a questionnaire of nearly 15,000 teachers and other educators.

The survey showed 56 per cent of the local reporting noted a damaging effect from destructive criticism, compared with 49 per cent in 1962. The percentage of schools reporting "much damage" rose from 11 to 16 per cent in the same period.

Ninety per cent of criticism in the form of charges of communism or subversion in the schools, the report said, came from three states -- California, Michigan and Ohio.

These three states also reported the greatest activity by right-wing groups in connection with book criticism and censorship, the report said.

Without distinguishing between the types of pressure and harassment, the report listed the chief trouble-makers in this order: The John Birch Society, teachers unions (which compete bitterly with the NEA for teacher memberships), citizens' committees, Chambers of Commerce, American Legion, Dan Smoot Reports, and Parent-Teacher Associations.

However, on the list of those groups which had been most helpful, the PTAs were away out in front, followed in order by Chambers of Commerce, American Association of University Women, American Legion, business and professional women's clubs and citizens' committees.

The report said right-wing groups, parents and religious groups led the attack on school books.

The sharpest chill was in the northern Plains, where it was 27 below zero at Bismarck, N.D., and -19 at Huron, S.D. But the far-ranging cold snap also pushed the mercury down to 6 above zero at Richmond, Va., and 18 at Asheville, N.C.

Southern California was still experiencing strong winds after Sunday's buffeting of up to 80 miles an hour. Some $250,000 in damage was reportedly inflicted on boats at Avalon Harbor on Catalina Island, some 20 miles off Los Angeles.

One man was missing and presumed drowned in the aftermath of 65-mile-an-hour winds and 18-to-20-foot waves that struck Avalon Harbor. Six persons were injured as 14 pleasure boats were smashed.

Lasters Changes Venue

POPULAR BLUFF -- William E. "Bill" Lasters, accused of robbing the Fisk State Bank Dec. 27, was granted a change of venue today by Butler County Magistrate Court Judge F. M. Kinder and a preliminary hearing was scheduled for Jan. 25 before Judge William Dodd of Ripley County.

Lasters' preliminary hearing was originally set to be held today before Kinder.

He is charged with robbing the Fisk State Bank of $5,914 on the afternoon of Dec. 27.

Presently he is out of jail on a $25,000 bond.

He lives at 415 Coleman St., in Sikeston.

Kennedys Ski Down Snowy Slopes

MILTON, Mass. AP -- Nineteen months ago Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., suffered a broken back in a plane crash. One never would have known it Sunday.

Kennedy, an accomplished skier before the accident, returned to the sport without apparent strain. He flawlessly maneuvered down the slopes at the Blue Hills ski area.

And in Gstaad, Switzerland, Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her daughter, Caroline, enjoyed a Sunday afternoon of undisturbed skiing. Unlike Saturday, Mrs. Kennedy was not bothered by anyone and no one seemed to recognize her. But she was on a different mountain.

Holiday Will Be Observed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) -- The commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, today ordered all American troops to cease firing for 78 hours starting at noon Thursday in observance of the Vietnamese lunar New Year holiday, Tet.

Westmoreland's order seconded the decision of the South Vietnamese government to halt fighting during the national celebration. Similar instructions went to South Korean, Australian and New Zealand troops fighting alongside the Vietnamese and Americans.

The truce more than doubles the 30-hour cease-fire observed by Allied forces during the Christmas holiday. But it falls 18 hours short of the Tet truce proclaimed by the Viet Cong. They have promised not to attack from 11 p.m. Wednesday to 11 p.m. Sunday, a total of four days.

The times are Saigon time, or 9 a.m. Wednesday to 9 a.m. Sunday, CST. The U.S.-Vietnamese cease-fire will begin at 10 a.m. CST.

Westmoreland ordered a cease-fire from noon Thursday to 6 p.m. Sunday. It was assumed the Allies agreed on different hours to avoid giving the impression they were simply reacting to the Communist proposal.

Westmoreland's order said: "All U.S. forces in the republic will not fire at or on the enemy except in self defense."

There was no sign in the Saigon sector of any letup in fighting before the holiday, although elsewhere in the country military activities continued at a slow pace.

In a lightning stroke, a Viet Cong company attacked a government infantry and armor school at Thu Due 10 miles north of Saigon at 1 a.m. While one part of the guerrilla force fired two mortar shells as a diversion, another hit part of the compound with automatic weapons.

The guerrillas pierced the barbed wire of the officers' candidate school and raked the billets, killing five wives and three children of Vietnamese officer candidates in their beds. Three other children were wounded.

Armored troops fought back and killed 10 of the Viet Cong, a government spokesman said. These bodies were left behind, but the fleeing Viet Cong were seen to be carrying other dead or wounded.

Twenty-six civilians were killed and four were wounded when a busload of civilians hit a Viet Cong mine on the road from Moc Hoa to Cai Lay, near Kien Tuong, 35 miles south of the capital.

Northwest of Saigon, a Viet Cong attack on a U.S. troop convoy backed up, supported by planes roaring in over the trees, the Americans turned the bitter fight 20 miles northwest of Saigon into a drubbing for the guerrillas.

Another Cold Night in State

KANSAS CITY AP -- Missouri is in for another cold night, but the weatherman says things will be a little warmer Tuesday.

The lows Tuesday morning will be in the 0 to 10 above range in the northwest and around 10 in the rest of the state. During the day the mercury is expected to hit around 30, with higher readings in the northwest.

$1 Billion Cost Tag Put on Transit Strike

NEW YORK AP -- The Commerce and Industry Association estimates that the 12-day subway and bus strike cost New Yorkers a billion dollars and that "less than 25 per cent will be recovered."

The major business group urged that the 15-cent transit fare be increased to help pay for the contract settlement that ended the transit tieup last Thursday.

The cost of new two-year contracts between the city Transit Authority and the striking Transport Workers Union and Amalgamated Transit Union, both AFL-CIO, has been estimated variously between $52 million and $70 million.

Nine Fishermen Believed in Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) -- Nine shrimp fishermen from Tampa, Fla., were presumed to be in the custody of the Cuban government today after one of their three boats ran aground in Cuban territorial waters.

The U.S. Coast Guard said the 73-foot Charles Singleton ran aground off northwest Cuba Sunday and her two sister boats -- Penny Singleton and Mark E. Singleton -- were directed to a Cuban port by the Cuban Coast Guard.

All three vessels, each carrying a captain and two crewmen, were en route from Tampa to Nicaragua. The boats were built in the last year or so and bought by the Singleton Shrimp Co. in Tampa for $250,000.

Christine Keeler Leaves Husband

LONDON AP -- Christine Keeler -- the party girl whose affair with former Defense Minister John Profumo rocked the British government -- has separated from her husband after three months of marriage despite the fact she is expecting a baby, her lawyer said today.

Christine, 23, married engineer James Levermore, 24, in a civil ceremony last October at Reading.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Monday, January 17, 1842, Sahara Desert - Prof. Hans Undfeets of the University of Vienna discovers the secret of the building of the pyramids, loses it.

YOU'RE GETTING OLD, IF---

You're getting old if you can remember when few people had home bathrooms and barber shops supplied the service. In Sikeston the last tub in a shop was in the Fisher and Mocabee Barber Shop where Wright's Jewelry Shop is now located. It was owned by John Fisher and Jim Mocabee. It was a four chair shop and a three bath tub shop.

Saturday was the big payday for the bathing facilities, with most men who used them taking a bath only once a week, on Saturday, while at the same time getting a shave and haircut, and often a massage, hair tonic and shine before starting out on their week end social activities. Usually they smelled like the cosmetic department of a drug store had spilled over them.

Ever since the invention of the wheel, automation has seemed a threat to employment of man.

In the year 1965 A. D., inventions which seem to be almost as revolutionary as the fabled wheel were said to be threatening the employment of millions, and, more than ever, are we alarmed about the displacement of men by machines.

But once again there may be cause for optimism rather than alarm. A report from the National Federation of Business indicates that automation is actually creating jobs. At the same time, automation seems to be reactivating smaller cities which were once bled by metropolitan centers.

As giant industries increasingly replace men with machines, they give new life to small related business in service and retail industries.

This year, in the United States, 5,500,000 new jobs are expected to be made available by small business in work which cannot be feasibly automated.

Fortunately, for many small cities which seemed to be on the decline, a great portion of the non-automated work will be done outside of metropolitan centers.

Like the ancient wheel, the thinking machines of today are creating wealth. New jobs will inevitably follow--better jobs with higher pay, and a better market for the small city retailer.

TRIPLE DUTY LANDMARK

Castle Clinton, fort built in the early 1800's to defend New York harbor, was placed in the category of National Monument in 1950. Later renamed Castle Garden, the fort served for a time as a concert hall and from 1855 to 1890 was a leading depot for immigrants arriving in the United States.

FALLACY

"Right To Work laws permit 'free riders' to reap the benefits of collective bargaining without paying their fair share of the cost of union representation. The union is required by Federal Law to bargain on behalf of all employees. Therefore, all employees should share the cost of that bargaining."

FACTS

"These (Right To Work) laws are aimed at removing a great blight on the contemporary American scene. . . There will always be some men, of course, who will try to sponge off others; but let us not express our contempt for some men by denying freedom of choice to all men."

U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater, Arizona, "The Conscience of a Conservative" (Victor, 1960)

Pauline Henry says: "A girdle is something that keeps an unfortunate situation from spreading."

Television is most effective in disclosing flaws in a person.

The merciless light thrown on Michael J. Quill, president of the Transport Workers Union in New York City, has disclosed a selfish, brash, arrogant, sneering and ignorant labor leader. No amount of newspaper publicity ever could have presented the same image. An attempt to picture this little man in an important position would have been denounced as biased, inaccurate reporting.

Yet Quill cavorting and enjoying the spotlight in front of the television cameras has willingly disclosed himself as the most unpleasant person who has been in the public spotlight in many years.

Quill has made fun of our laws and system of justice, held peace officers up to ridicule, made contemptuous remarks about our courts and refused to obey a court order so that his own will could prevail.

There has never been a strike in the nation's history given less of an atmosphere for public support than the tieup of transportation in New York City.

Transit workers have a grievance. Their wages are too low, out of line with the pay of municipal employees doing similar work.

But the strike was not necessary to get them

a raise.

Quill appears to have been motivated by a desire to repay the New York City Democratic organization for past favors by trying to make John V. Lindsay, the new Republican mayor elected on a coalition ticket, look like a ninny. He has succeeded, too. Lindsay isn't getting much help from either the Republicans or the Democrats.

But what a terrible thing it is that New York City commuters, who rely on public transportation for their livelihood, should be made the pawns of selfish political goals.

New York newspapers have been the victims of a union power struggle in which Bertram Powers of the International Typographical Union sought more to outstrip the powers of other unions dealing with the newspapers than to obtain benefits for the printers. The public as well as the publishers have suffered from this internal union struggle.

This story has been told over and over by other unions in other industries.

It is no longer is merely a matter of obtaining higher wages for workers. This motive has been submerged by many other considerations far less worthy and which often are offensive to consumers, who bear the brunt of the punishment from the union leaders' capers.

Should there be a congressional investigation? Don't kid yourself. Congress would not touch it with a 10-foot pole.

Should the National have intervened? If he had it would have been to rescue the union leaders from their plight, not as an act in behalf of the unorganized consumers.

Should there be new laws to more nearly restore the balance of power between unions and management? Yes there should be but congress is cowed by the responsibility.

Frankly the prospect is that other union czars with the callous disregard for the public welfare of Mike Quill will continue to thumb their nose at the public welfare and grind the American consumers under their heels.

Quill himself may not be around much longer as a leader.

He reads his lines poorly and he has revealed much too much of himself even for the long suffering stomachs of the American people.

There will never be any real progress in prison reform until we start sending a better class of people to jail.

JANUARY JUSTIFICATION

We heard the January winds roaring in the night, felt them crawling through crevices at the window sash, felt their bite when we stepped outdoors. We acclimated ourselves at length, only to find a topcoat had become extra baggage when we ventured out another day.

January is so wondrously vacillating as to seem somewhat human. The icebox days depart, the frosty earth thaws to mud, and then the winds return, darting over gray clouds and strumming the tree harps. Eventually you learn to step outside each morn to test the air and plan the number of sweaters and coats to be worn or left behind. You make the nervous decision to forego an umbrella. You dress for spring, because your senses tell you that is right, and winter smashes back by dusk as if to say: "Fool, don't you know it's January?"

But there was a day--a day to win a pardon for all the other sins of January. Up before daylight, you set out on a mission that carried you toward the setting full moon in the west. Such a moon. . . virginal white with brocaded patterns of moon mountains, casting dark shadows on the half-bright horizon. And then it sank, and you felt the red warmth of sunlight on your back and turned to see the sun emerging, soaring, bringing the sky to an ocean blue. At end of day, turned back toward home, you saw the cycle begin again, as the fireball vanished in soft violet shadows, and the bronze moon hove into sight once more, swollen and mist-circled.

A turn of the planet and you had seen it all, absorbed the beauty of eternity, and welcomed back the harsh night wind with its January roar.

Squeeze nut, bruise not, is a good rule to keep in mind when buying fresh fruits and vegetables. Remember, the more produce you press, squeeze, and otherwise treat roughly, the more the retailer has to charge to cover his losses. And thus who really pays? If you must handle foodstuffs, be gentle.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture recommends that potatoes be kept in a cool, dark, dry, and well-ventilated place. Storage in a warm place--will cause them to shrivel and sprout. A cold place may cause the potatoes to develop a sweet taste because some of their starch changes to sugar.

WE LIVE TOO FAST In the name of Jesus Christ, who was never in a hurry, we pray God, that Thou wilt slow us down, for we know that we live too fast. With all of eternity before us, make us take time to live -- time to get acquainted with Thee, time to enjoy our blessings, and time to know each other.

Storing pecans correctly is extremely important for, due to their high oil content, these nuts are highly perishable. Like other nuts, pecans keep better in the shell than shelled, and better at cold than warm temperatures. In the shell, pecans will keep two or three months at room temperature. In a tight container at 32 degrees F., or colder, shelled pecans will keep well six months to a year.

According to marketing specialists smart shoppers will look for oranges with greenish or russet skins and grapefruit with rust-colored blotches for they are often sold at reduced prices. These fruits will taste just as good as "perfects," and should save you money.

Some retail food prices again may increase in 1966, say economists, but not as much as in 1965. And, because most people will be earning more money, they'll actually be spending less of their takehome pay for food in 1966 than in 1965.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, under its consumer protection activities, inspected more than 60 billion pounds of poultry and meat products during fiscal year 1965.

The teacher took her class of little boys and girls on an outing, near a race track. As the kids left the bus, several of them had to answer the call of nature.

Naturally, the teacher helped them. She was helping one very cute little fellow when he said: "Please lady, would you mind letting me button my own pants? I'm in a terrible hurry. . . I have to get to the track in time to ride in the third race."

MEN GET THAT NO-ALTERATION BREAK

Did you men ever stop to think about how very lucky you are with your clothes -- as compared to the opposite sex? You buy a suit which fits you -- and it stays that way for the life of the garment. You do not have to go to the trouble and the sizable expense EACH and EVERY season -- of having your garments shortened or lengthened. Has there been a season in your memory when your wife didn't have to shell out a small fortune -- so her clothes would follow the dictates of the "Voice of Fashion?" And often before she had the chance to wear the stuff--there's been a new dictate, and the whole process started over again. You can be happy on that one score at least -- you lucky men!

HAPPINESS is seeing the Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan light a burning cross and catch his sheet on fire.

A motorist and his wife traveling through the Blue Ridge Mountains stopped at a one-pump gas station before a mountaineer's cabin. After the man told the proprietor to fill the tank, his wife asked: "Is there a rest room here?" "No, ma'am, there isn't," replied the gas man, "but you'll find a mighty comfortable rock-er up there on the porch."

THE ROAD TO ANARCHY California's Representative Craig Hosmer makes the timely observation that the Civil Rights law "is only one of thousands of the laws of our land," and calls for vigorous enforcement of all laws, the protection of the rights of the majority as well as those of the minority, including protection against the acts of criminals.

"I therefore call upon the President, the Attorney General and all the state and local law enforcement officers for the equal enforcement of the law," declared Mr. Hosmer in extended remarks in the Congressional Record, "for the relentless pursuit of all criminal offenders, irrespective of race, color, creed or other irrelevant considerations. . . I demand that the American citizen's right to protection against criminal acts be held in greater dignity than the criminal's opportunities to avoid punishment for his crimes."

The Congressman noted a steady decline in effective law enforcement, and a sharp rise in serious crimes. He charged the Supreme Court with hampering law enforcement and "a philosophy holding the criminal's so-called right to a philosophy holding the criminal's so-called right to a fair trial more dear than the honest citizen's right not to be the criminal's victim." He also charged the President and the Attorney General with a part of the responsibility.

"Although it has not been their intention to do so," said the California Congressman, "the constantly publicized zeal of these highest officials in our land in the matter of Civil Rights laws unfortunately has given the impression that obedience to other laws is, somehow, less necessary and important. . . that use of law enforcement resources in instances when a 'cause' is involved has priority over their use when only ordinary law-abiding citizens are concerned."

Mr. Hosmer called attention to recent events "in the forests of Mississippi and the jungles of New York City," the disappearance of the three Civil Rights workers in Mississippi, the maiming and terrorizing of New York subway riders by lawless gangs and the murder of New Yorkers in the streets and in apartment house elevators. He noted the mobilization of Federal agents in Mississippi, the lack of "similar action" in New York City.

"Is an American's life," he asks, "less precious, less to be protected, in New York than in Mississippi? Is an American's right not to be the victim of a criminal act greater in Mississippi than in another state? Are some individuals in some locations on some pursuits more entitled to the full protection of the law than other individuals in other locations?"

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Louisiana's boyishly affable Sen. Russell Long, who in Harry Byrd's place as Senate Finance Chairman has sent a shiver up Wall Street, is determined to use his formidable new powers to help the "little fellow."

Long has confided to intimates that he will battle to bring down interest rates, drug prices and inequitable taxes, which hit lower-income families in the pocketbook.

He has already sent an investigator over to the National Institutes of Health to find out how the big drug companies manage to get the patent rights on drug discoveries financed by the taxpayers.

The investigator found that NIH employees who have developed new drugs in government laboratories have taken out private patents on the discoveries and sold the manufacturing rights to private companies.

One company which has got hold of patents on NIH discoveries is Merck & Co., whose former president, John T. Connor, is now secretary of commerce. If Long digs too deeply into this, it could embarrass the Johnson administration which he is supposed to uphold as Senate Democratic whip.

HIGHER TOBACCO TAX? The Senator from Louisiana will also strive to simplify tax forms and wipe out tax inequities. The sheer complexity of the forms, he contends, costs taxpayers money.

Instead of rescinding the tax on telephone calls, as President Johnson has requested, Long would rather increase the tax on tobacco. He believes that any product which has been declared a health hazard, as cigarettes have, should be heavily taxed.

He would also like to increase the tax on alcohol and earmark the proceeds for the treatment of alcoholics.

Long is also bracing for a battle with the powerful banking lobby over interest rates. If backstage approaches to the Federal Reserve Board fail, he is ready to push through a bill compelling the Board to rescind its recent rate increase.

Russ Long is not a person to be taken slightly. As finance chairman and Democratic whip, he could develop into the most powerful man in the Senate this year.

When Sargent Shriver took command of the war on poverty, he didn't expect to come under fire himself. He has been shot at from all sides, including some direct hits in the back from his former deputy, Jack Conway.

The next salvo will come from Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, who, though up to his pockets in the poverty scandal in his own New York Harlem, has sent investigators to look for scandals in Los Angeles.

They have found a disgruntled ex-employee who has systematically collected evidence on the strange way in which contracts have been awarded. It adds up to another story of mismanagement and incompetence.

Meanwhile, the Republicans have been gathering information on the reluctance of Democratic mayors to let representatives of the poor have a voice in controlling the allocation of anti-poverty funds.

The Republicans are also helping taking notes on the strife inside the Job Corps camps and the political exploitation of the Neighborhood Youth Corps.

The most objective investigation of the poverty program, however, is planned by Sen. Ed Muskie, D-Me. Already on his desk is a thorough evaluation of the program.

Note: Shriver's troubles began after he lost his tough and talented inspector general, William Haddad, who had been his lightning rod. Haddad and his deputy, Robert Clappitt, had an uncanny ability to sense trouble before it started.

UNDER THE DOME Cantankerous Congress?--On Capitol Hill the returning solons have been shaking hands, slapping backs and shouting greetings like old college grads at an alumni reunion. But, just as sure as this is an election year, the conviviality can be expected to give way to cantankerousness early in the session.

For Republicans are itching to investigate the administration, Democrats are anxious to show their independence of President Johnson, and committee chairmen are determined to assert their leadership. These are the ingredients for ferocity, filibusters and frustration on Capitol Hill this year.

Peace Mission -- Back from carrying peace messages to Pope Paul and Prime Minister Wilson, U.N. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg was sent on another unannounced peace mission last week. He made peace overtures to Senate Foreign Relations Chairman William Fulbright, D-Ark., who had been given the chill by President Johnson and retaliated by appointing double-trouble Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., in charge of foreign aid legislation.

Kefauver Foundation -- Sen. Ross Bass, D-Tenn., who needs all the money he can raise this year for his own reelection, has been soliciting money from his friends for the Kefauver Memorial Foundation. The money will be used to build a wing at the University of Tennessee Library in honor of the late Sen. Estes Kefauver. Vice President Humphrey will be the main attraction at a fund-raising reception tonight on Capitol Hill.

The American people, Rep. Hosmer plainly suspects, will say NO!

The girl who says she just turned 23 is likely to be 32.

A chorus cutie bragged to her roommate -- "I had a date last night with a general." The impressed roommate inquired, "Major general?" "No," she answered. "Not yet!"

Did you hear about the girl who took a tramp in the woods? Now she's feeling a little bum.

Minister: "Ah, good morning Mrs. Brown. I see you are taking a tramp into the country."

Mrs. Brown: "A tramp indeed! I'd have you know this is my husband!"

On the occasion of Nero's 25th birthday, he arrived at the Colosseum to find that the Praetorian Guard had prepared a treat for him in the arena. There stood 25 naked virgins, like candles on a cake, tied to poles, burning alive. "Wonderful!" exclaimed the deranged emperor, "but one of them isn't dead yet. I can see her lips moving. Go quickly and find out what she is saying."

The centurion saluted, and hurried out to the virgin, getting as near the flames as he dared, and listened intently. Then he turned and hurried back to the imperial box. "She is not talking," he reported to Nero, "she is singing." "Singing?" said the astounded emperor. "Singing what?" "Happy birthday to you, happy birthday to you. . ."

The room was small, misty and dim with pungent incense as the wrinkled gypsy woman looked up from her crystal at the gentleman seated before her. "I will answer any two questions you ask me," said the gypsy, "for fifty dollars." "Isn't that price rather high?" asked the man. "Now what is your second question?"

AMERICAN ACHIEVEMENT We are in danger of forgetting the society which made us what we are today, and we are in danger of ignoring what lies at the end of the new road we have taken as a nation and a people.

That new road is marked by the unlimited use of government power and the dominance of the collective group over the individual in almost every walk of life. By contrast, our nation and its economic achievement, which is the wonder of the world, were built in freedom by personal enterprise.

We have all heard the glib arguments used to justify the change; that modern society is "too complex" to tolerate much freedom, that our future must now be planned by force, that minority collectives need our help, and so on. The fact remains that the tremendous success story of America took place without controls and planning and collectivism.

The American people attained by far the highest living standard in the world; they became by far the most efficient producers in the world; they made their land rich far beyond the most fantastic dreams of earlier ages. This cannot be explained by the blessings of nature or by stimulation through government action. Other lands equally blessed by nature, notably Russia, have lagged far behind us, and the most energetic programs of governments having total power have not enabled the peoples of these lands to overtake or significantly gain on us.

American Communist Party Training New Youth Cadres On Isolated Farms For Anti-Government Action.

Washington, D. C. -- When revolutionist Gus Hall, the Brezhnev of the American Communist Party, leaves the comforts of big city suburbia for the crudities of a tiny midwest farm, the odds are he's neither vacationing nor bird watching.

So, it intrigued authorities to learn that some four months ago Hall went Hoosier. Secretly he made his way to a small farm outside of Monterey, Indiana, about 125 miles north of Indianapolis.

There under what the Communist Party believed to be the strictest security, Hall and several others of the Communist high command found 60 young men and women eagerly awaiting to be briefed on their future in the Communist apparatus across the U. S.

This was but one of a series of secret training and indoctrination schools run by the Party since the Supreme Court ruled that its members need not register with the Attorney General.

The assembled youth were dedicated young people. Sex and revolution have been a favorite formula of the older Party organizers through the years.

In itself the secret training school would make a stirring story. So would the method of recruitment, selection and dispatch along "underground" routes. So would the obtaining of the farm, one of many sites the Soviet - oriented party has developed in the most unlikely and least proletarian sectors of the land.

But more vital here is the fact that for the first time the Orthodox Communist Party is not having difficulty finding young people. Its membership roster has gone up some 2,000 over the static 10,000 of the past decade. And the cynics should know that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has other use for his agents and informers than to pour them into the "C. P." in such numbers.

What is important is the disclosure of a new directive to all Party organizers, whose chief was with Gus Hall on his Hoosier hegira, to build the Party to 50,000 now that it is generally believed the Soviets will ally themselves with the U. S. against the Maoists during the final conflict.

However, an analysis of Hall's "secret" indoctrination and briefing talk to the new cadre activists on the Monterey farm, proves the U. S. S. R. is not quite an ally of this nation. Gus Hall is global headline news when he rides the secret circuit of Communist youth training camps, because he is the voice of Soviet theoretician Mikhail Suslov in the U. S. Hall never deviates. He is a Communist computer -- a memory box into which Suslov's emissaries have programmed the line for the American Communist movement. Therefore, what Hall says is the basic Soviet catechism.

And the line, as he imparted it to the buxom young comrades was: Neither the National Liberation Front nor the U. S. can win a military victory in Viet Nam. There is no question but that the U. S., however, will suffer a political defeat so catastrophic that it will equate a military setback.

Therefore, the American Communist Party must do its best to destroy the political image of the U. S. Slogans will be given the young people, as they disperse after the rural training sessions, to push in their home cities. These slogans call for destroying the image of the U. S.; discrediting the leaders who insist on fighting the Viet Cong; demanding the withdrawal of troops from South Viet Nam and as an ultimate goal, the Party must call for a Communist - controlled, unified North and South Viet Nam.

Gus Hall, flanked by the Communists' national organizer and national youth director as well as leading functionaries from other states, such as Illinois' Claude Lightfoot, ordered the young people not to act like Communists, when they go home to push the propaganda.

They are to organize. They are to move considerable concentration from the campuses of the nation to the factories of the land. Especially those which produce armaments, electronics, communication equipment, helicopters, tanks and other war material.

They were told to watch for the resolutions and slogans which will be passed by the upcoming 18th National Convention of the Party.

The Communist conclave, the first since 1959, is scheduled for early summer in either New York or Chicago. The last Party congress was a closed gathering on an upper floor in Manhattan's Hotel Theresa where Fidel Castro and a chap called N. S. Khrushchev met later.

But this summer's American Communist Party's national sessions will be public. It is a bold move.

And by that time, Hall plans to parade his youthful, new legions in full view -- so secure does he now feel.

YOU'RE GETTING OLD, IF---

You're getting old if you can remember when few people had home bathrooms and barber shops supplied the service. In Sikeston the last tub in a shop was in the Fisher and Mocabee Barber Shop where Wright's Jewelry Shop is now located. It was owned by John Fisher and Jim Mocabee. It was a four chair shop and a three bath tub shop.

Saturday was the big payday for the bathing facilities, with most men who used them taking a bath only once a week, on Saturday, while at the same time getting a shave and haircut, and often a massage, hair tonic and shine before starting out on their week end social activities. Usually they smelled like the cosmetic department of a drug store had spilled over them.

Ever since the invention of the wheel, automation has seemed a threat to employment of man.

In the year 1965 A. D., inventions which seem to be almost as revolutionary as the fabled wheel were said to be threatening the employment of millions, and, more than ever, are we alarmed about the displacement of men by machines.

But once again there may be cause for optimism rather than alarm. A report from the National Federation of Business indicates that automation is actually creating jobs. At the same time, automation seems to be reactivating smaller cities which were once bled by metropolitan centers.

As giant industries increasingly replace men with machines, they give new life to small related business in service and retail industries.

This year, in the United States, 5,500,000 new jobs are expected to be made available by small business in work which cannot be feasibly automated.

Fortunately, for many small cities which seemed to be on the decline, a great portion of the non-automated work will be done outside of metropolitan centers.

Like the ancient wheel, the thinking machines of today are creating wealth. New jobs will inevitably follow--better jobs with higher pay, and a better market for the small city retailer.

FALLACY

"Right To Work laws permit 'free riders' to reap the benefits of collective bargaining without paying their fair share of the cost of union representation. The union is required by Federal Law to bargain on behalf of all employees. Therefore, all employees should share the cost of that bargaining."

FACTS

These (Right To Work) laws are aimed at removing a great blight on the contemporary American scene. . . There will always be some men, of course, who will try to sponge off others; but let us not express our contempt for some men by denying freedom of choice to all men."

U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater, Arizona, "The Conscience of a Conservative" (Victor, 1960)

Pauline Henry says: "A girdle is something that keeps an unfortunate situation from spreading."

Television is most effective in disclosing flaws in a person.

The merciless light thrown on Michael J. Quill, president of the Transport Workers Union in New York City, has disclosed a selfish, brash, arrogant, sneering and ignorant labor leader. No amount of newspaper publicity ever could have presented the same image. An attempt to picture this little man in an important position would have been denounced as biased, inaccurate reporting.

Yet Quill cavoring and enjoying the spotlight in front of the television cameras has willingly disclosed himself as the most unpleasant person who has been in the public spotlight in many years.

Quill has made fun of our laws and system of justice, held peace officers up to ridicule, made contemptuous remarks about our courts and refused to obey a court order so that his own will could prevail.

There has never been a strike in the nation's history given less of an atmosphere for public support than the tieup of transportation in New York City.

Transit workers have a grievance. Their wages are too low, out of line with the pay of municipal employees doing similar work.

But the strike was not necessary to get them

a raise.

Quill appears to have been motivated by a desire to repay the New York City Democratic organization for past favors by trying to make John V. Lindsay, the new Republican mayor elected on a coalition ticket, look like a ninny. He has succeeded, too. Lindsay isn't getting much help from either the Republicans or the Democrats.

But what a terrible thing it is that New York City commuters, who rely on public transportation for their livelihood, should be made the pawns of selfish political goals.

New York newspapers have been the victims of a union power struggle in which Bertram Powers of the International Typographical Union sought more to outstrip the powers of other unions dealing with the newspapers than to obtain benefits for the printers. The public as well as the publishers have suffered from this internal union struggle.

This story has been told over and over by other unions in other industries.

It no longer is merely a matter of obtaining higher wages for workers. This motive has been submerged by many other considerations far less worthy and which often are offensive to consumers, who bear the brunt of the punishment from the union leaders' capers.

Should there be a congressional investigation? Don't kid yourself. Congress would not touch it with a 10-foot pole.

Should the President have intervened? If he had it would have been to rescue the union leaders from their plight, not as an act in behalf of the unorganized consumers.

Should there be new laws to more nearly restore the balance of power between unions and management? Yes there should be but congress is cowed by the responsibility.

Frankly the prospect is that other union czars with the callous disregard for the public welfare of Mike Quill will continue to thumb their nose at the public welfare and grind the American consumers under their heels.

Quill himself may not be around much longer as a leader.

He reads his lines poorly and he has revealed much too much of himself even for the long suffering stomachs of the American people.

There will never be any real progress in prison reform until we start sending a better class of people to jail.

JANUARY JUSTIFICATION

We heard the January winds roaring in the night, felt them crawling through crevices at the window sash, felt their bite when we stepped outdoors. We acclimated ourselves at length, only to find a topcoat had become extra baggage when we ventured out another day.

January is so wondrously vacillating as to seem somewhat human. The icebox days depart, the frosty earth thaws to mud, and then the winds return, darting over gray clouds and strumming the tree harps. Eventually you learn to step outside each morn to test the air and plan the number of sweaters and coats to be worn or left behind. You make the nervous decision to forego an umbrella. You dress for spring, because your senses tell you that is right, and winter smashes back by dusk as if to say: "Fool, don't you know it's January?"

But there was a day--a day to win a pardon for all the other sins of January. Up before daylight, you set out on a mission that carried you toward the setting full moon in the west. Such a moon. . . virginal white with brocaded patterns of moon mountains, casting dark shadows on the half-bright horizon. And then it sank, and you felt the red warmth of sunlight on your back and turned to see the sun emerging, soaring, bringing the sky to an ocean blue. At end of day, turned back toward home, you saw the cycle begin again, as the fireball vanished in soft violet shadows, and the bronze moon hove into sight once more, swollen and mist-circled.

A turn of the planet and you had seen it all, absorbed the beauty of eternity, and welcomed back the harsh night wind with its January roar.

WE LIVE TOO FAST

In the name of Jesus Christ, who was never in a hurry, we pray God, that Thou wilt slow us down, for we know that we live too fast. With all of eternity before us, make us take time to live -- time to get acquainted with Thee, time to enjoy our blessings, and time to know each other.

Storing pecans correctly is extremely important for, due to their high oil content, these nuts are highly perishable. Like other nuts, pecans keep better in the shell than shelled, and better at cold than warm temperatures. In the shell, pecans will keep two or three months at room temperature. In a tight container at 32 degrees F., or colder, shelled pecans will keep well six months to a year.

According to marketing specialists smart shoppers will look for oranges with greenish or russet skins and grapefruit with rust-colored blotches for they are often sold at reduced prices. These fruits will taste just as good as "perfects," and should save you money.

Some retail food prices again may increase in 1966, say economists, but not as much as in 1965. And, because most people will be earning more money, they'll actually be spending less of their take home pay for food in 1966 than in 1965.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, under its consumer protection activities, inspected more than 60 billion pounds of poultry and meat products during fiscal year 1965.

Naturally, the teacher helped them. She was helping one very cute little fellow when he said: "Please lady, would you mind letting me button my own pants? I'm in a terrible hurry. . . I have to get to the track in time to ride in the third race."

MEN GET THAT NO-ALTERATION BREAK Did you men ever stop to think about how very lucky you are with your clothes -- as compared to the opposite sex? You buy a suit which fits you -- and it stays that way for the life of the garment. You do not have to go to the trouble and the sizable expense EACH and EVERY season -- of having your garments shortened or lengthened. Has there been a season in your memory when your wife didn't have to shell out a small fortune -- so her clothes would follow the dictates of the "Voice of Fashion"? And often before she had the chance to wear the stuff--there's been a new dictate, and the whole process started over again. You can be happy that one score at least -- you lucky men!

HAPPINESS IS seeing the Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan light a burning cross and catch his sheet on fire. A motorist and his wife traveling through the Blue Ridge Mountains stopped at a one-pump gas station before a mountaineer's cabin. After the man told the proprietor to fill the tank, his wife asked: "Is there a rest room here?" "No, ma'am, there isn't," replied the gas man, "but you'll find a mighty comfortable rocker up there on the porch."

THE ROAD TO ANARCHY California's Representative Craig Hosmer makes the timely observation that the Civil Rights law "is only one of thousands of the laws of our land," and calls for vigorous enforcement of all laws, the protection of the rights of the majority as well as those of the minority, including protection against the acts of criminals.

"I therefore call upon the President, the Attorney General and all the state and local law enforcement officers for the equal enforcement of the law," declared Mr. Hosmer in extended remarks in the Congressional Record, "for the relentless pursuit of all criminal offenders, irrespective of race, color, creed or other irrelevant considerations. . . I demand that the American citizen's right to protection against criminal acts be held in greater dignity than the criminal's opportunities to avoid punishment for his crimes."

The Congressman noted a steady decline in effective law enforcement, and a sharp rise in serious crimes. He charged the Supreme Court with hampering law enforcement and "a philosophy holding the criminal's so-called right to a philosophy holding the criminal's so-called right to a fair trial more dear than the honest citizen's right not to be the criminal's victim." He also charged the President and the Attorney General with a part of the responsibility.

"Although it has not been their intention to do so," said the California Congressman, "the constantly publicized zeal of these highest officials in our land in the matter of Civil Rights laws unfortunately has given the impression that obedience to other laws is, somehow, less necessary and important . . . that use of law enforcement resources in instances when a 'cause' is involved has priority over their use when only ordinary law-abiding citizens are concerned."

Mr. Hosmer called attention to recent events "in the forests of Mississippi and the jungles of New York City," the disappearance of the three Civil Rights workers in Mississippi, the maiming and terrorizing of New York subway riders by lawless gangs and the murder of New Yorkers in the streets and in apartment house elevators. He noted the mobilization of Federal agents in Mississippi, the lack of "similar action" in New York City. "Is an American's life," he asks, "less precious, less to be protected, in New York than in Mississippi? Is an American's right not to be the victim of a criminal act greater in Mississippi than in another state? Are some individuals in some locations on some pursuits more entitled to the full protection of the law than other individuals in other locations?"

WASHINGTON -- Louisiana's boyishly affable Sen. Russell Long, who in Harry Byrd's place as Senate Finance Chairman has sent a shiver up Wall Street, is determined to use his formidable new powers to help the "little fellow."

Long has confided to intimates that he will battle to bring down interest rates, drug prices and inequitable taxes, which hit lower-income families in the pocketbook.

He has already sent an investigator over to the National Institutes of Health to find out how the big drug companies manage to get the patent rights on drug discoveries financed by the taxpayers.

The investigator found that NIH employees who have developed new drugs in government laboratories have taken out private patents on their discoveries and sold the manufacturing rights to private companies.

One company which has got hold of patents on NIH discoveries is Merck & Co., whose former president, John T. Connor, is now secretary of commerce. If Long digs too deeply into this, it could embarrass the Johnson administration which he is supposed to uphold as Senate Democratic whip.

This was but one of a series of secret training and indoctrination schools run by the Party since the Supreme Court ruled that its members need not register with the Attorney General.

The assembled youth were dedicated young people. Sex and revolution has been a favorite formula of the older Party organizers through the years.

In itself the secret training school would make a stirring story. So would the method of recruitment, selection and dispatch along "underground" routes. So would the obtaining of the farm, one of many sites the Soviet-oriented Party has developed in the most unlikely and least proletarian sectors of the land.

But more vital here is the fact that for the first time the Orthodox Communist Party is not having difficulty finding young people. Its membership roster has gone up some 5,000 over the static 10,000 of the past decade. And the cynics should know that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has other use for his agents and informers than to pour them into the "C. P." in such numbers.

What is important is the disclosure of a new directive to all Party organizers, whose chief was with Gus Hall on his Hoosier hegira, to build the Party to 50,000 now that it is generally believed the Soviets will ally themselves with the U. S. against the Maoists during the final conflict.

However, an analysis of Hall's "secret" indoctrination and briefing talk to the new cadre activists on the Monterey farm, proves the U. S. S. R. is not quite an ally of this nation. Gus Hall is global headline news when he rides the secret circuit of Communist youth training camps, because he is the voice of Soviet theoretician Mikhail Suslov in the U. S. Hall never deviates. He is a Communist computer -- a memory box into which Suslov's emissaries have programmed the line for the American Communist movement. Therefore, what Hall says is the basic Soviet catechism.

And the line, as he imparted it to the buccolic young comrades was: Neither the National Liberation Front nor the U. S. can win a military victory in Viet Nam. There is no question but that the U. S., however, will suffer a political defeat so catastrophic that it will equate a military setback.

Therefore, the American Communist Party must do its best to destroy the political image of the U. S. Slogans will be given the young people, as they disperse after the rural training sessions, to push in their home cities. These slogans call for destroying the image of the U. S., discrediting the leaders who insist on fighting the Viet Cong; demanding the withdrawal of troops from South Viet Nam and as an ultimate goal, the Party must call for a Communist-controlled, unified North and South Viet Nam.

Gus Hall, flanked by the Communists' national organizer and national youth director as well as leading functionaries from other states, such as Illinois' Claude Lightfoot, ordered the young people not to act like Communists, when they go home to push the propaganda.

They are to organize. They are to move considerable concentration from the campuses of the nation to the factories of the land. Especially those which produce armaments, electronics, communication equipment, helicopters, tanks and other war materiel.

They were told to watch for the resolutions and slogans which will be passed by the upcoming 18th National Convention of the Party.

The Communist conclave, the first since 1959, is scheduled for early summer in either New York or Chicago. The last Party congress was a closed gathering on an upper floor in Manhattan's Hotel Theresa where Fidel Castro and a chap called N. S. Khrushchev met later.

But this summer's American Communist Party's national sessions will be public. It is a bold move.

And by that time, Hall plans to parade his youthful, new legions in full view -- so secure does he now feel.

Mrs. Tanner Is New Member Of Garden Club

The Meadow Lane Garden Club met Friday afternoon at the Hunter Memorial Presbyterian Church, with Mrs. M. H. Davis, club president, presiding. Thirteen members were present. Mrs. Harrison Tanner became a new member of the club. Mrs. Mark Weston was in charge of the program on Conservation, "Show Me Beauty for the Birds," and she presented Mr. Bernard of the Missouri Conservation Commission, who showed a film.

Mrs. V. A. Hubbard, year book chairman, presented the new year books, the theme of which is "Show Me - Beauty". Plans were made by the club members to have a concession stand Tuesday at the public auction sale being held by Mrs. Kermit Bird in New Madrid county.

Mrs. Davis reported a total of 46 dolls were dressed by the club members for the First National Bank, who gave them to needy children at Christmas time.

Miss Mary Jean Geske Is Homemaker Of Tomorrow

MATTHEWS -- Mary Jean Geske, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Geske, route three, is Matthews R-V school's 1966 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow. She scored highest in a written knowledge and attitude examination taken by senior girls Dec. 7 and is now eligible for state and national scholarship awards. Mary Jean has already earned a special award pin from the program's sponsor, General Mills.

Miss Geske attended Canolau Grade School and is a senior at Matthews high school. She has done outstanding work in Home Economics and 4-H Club activities, having been regional winner in Sew With Cotton Contest three times and participated in a number of 4-H activities on a county and district level. She plans to attend Eastern Illinois University at Charleston, Ill., next year and major in Home Economics.

Test papers of all school winners in the state are being judged, and a State Homemaker of Tomorrow runner-up will be selected soon.

The State Homemaker of Tomorrow will receive a $1,500 college scholarship, and her school will be awarded a complete set of the Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc. The second-ranking girl in the state will receive a $500 educational grant.

Next spring, the State Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow from every state and the District of Columbia, each accompanied by a school advisor will join in an expensive educational tour of Colonial Williamsburg, Va., and Washington, D. C. Then, the 1966 All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be announced at a dinner in Washington. Chosen from state winners on the basis of original test score and personal observation and interviews during the tour, she will have her scholarship increased to $5,000. Second, third, and fourth - ranking Homemakers of Tomorrow in the nation will be awarded $4,000, $3,000, and $2,000 grants, respectively.

The Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow was instituted by General Mills in 1954-55 to emphasize the importance of homemaking as a career. The program has enrolled 4,627,943 senior girls, with total scholarships grants exceeding $1,261,000. The 570,824 girls and 14,714 schools participating in the 1965-66 Search established a new record enrollment.

Beth Fuchs; Lisa Watson Have Party

Beth Fuchs and Lisa Watson shared honors at a birthday party at Angels Day Care Wednesday.

This was the second year for each of them to have a birthday at the school.

Mrs. Fuchs brought treats for the children and pictures were taken of the group as Beth and Lisa blew out the candles on their birthday cake.

Children helping them celebrate were Carol, Mary Lee and Timothy Wise, Roy Warren, Vicki Throgmorton, Mike Taylor, Mark Sherrod, Kara Settles, Pam Miller, Richard and Debbie Mazurk.

Ricky Jones, Mike and Mark Hurley, Charlotte and Jeanene Stone, Danny Hampton, Nick Garner, Karen Cox, Greg Carr, Roy Lee and Billy Alsop, Lori Smith, Julie Cowell and Patricia Pruitt.

Visiting that day were Rowdy and Stevie Craig, Martha Hampton and Alice Trigg were unable to attend.

Sutton Will Not Return To Senath

SENATH -- Volley F. Sutton, superintendent of Senath schools, and the more recently reorganized Senath-Hornersville district, was notified that his contract for the 1966-1967 school term would not be renewed.

A. B. Utley, president of the Senath-Hornersville School District board of directors, reported that the board met and the vote was four against and two in favor of renewing Sutton's contract.

Members of the school board are Roy Blackwood, Robert Caner, R. K. Swindle and Utley from Senath and Don Pierce and Max Ray Moore from Hornersville.

Sutton has served the Senath and area schools 15 years as superintendent. He is a past president of the Lions club, a member of the First Methodist church and serves as Senath representative and secretary of the Dunklin County Economic Opportunity Assn., Incorporated.

Sutton said the rejection of the renewal of his contract came as a surprise to him. "I have no plans for the future. For the past 35 years I've been a school teacher, first at Eminence, then at Bell City, and finally at Senath. Twenty-four of those years were as superintendent of schools," Sutton reported. "This is the first time, to my knowledge, that I ever received a vote against my contract renewal."

MOREHOUSE -- The Kiwanis Club met Thursday evening, at the Koffee Kup for their regular dinner meeting with 15 members attending. A short business meeting was conducted with the new president, Mayor L. B. McNew, presiding.

A get-well card was signed by all the members and sent to the secretary of the club, Otis Daniels, who underwent major surgery in the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Doctor Wins Silver Beaver

KENNETT -- Dr. Chester R. Peck of Kennett was presented the Silver Beaver award at the annual Seminole Boy Scout district appreciation dinner.

The Silver Beaver is the highest honor that can be awarded to an adult Scout leader on the council level.

Only four persons in the council are awarded the Silver Beaver annually. The award was presented by Taylor Miles of Kennett, vice-president of the SeMo Council.

An estimated 200 persons were on hand at the Kennett American Legion Community Building for the annual dinner.

Purpose of the dinner was to pay tribute to adult leaders of the 44 Scout units in the Seminole District.

Dr. Harry Goddard of Kennett served as master of ceremonies. Wayne Nelson of Kansas City, deputy regional executive, conducted the installation of the Seminole district officers. Also in attendance was Richard C. Ray of Cape Girardeau, chief executive of the Southeast Missouri Boy Scout Council and Judge Marshall Craig of Sikeston who was in charge of the recognition service for unit leaders. Judge Craig also spoke.

Officers installed last night were: Glenn Armstrong, district chairman; and Verne Johnson, district commissioner.

Sikeston Listed For Conference

UNION -- The annual state-wide Leadership Education Coaching Conference for community leadership education training conferences personnel will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at the United Church of Christ Camp Mo-Val near here. The Coaching Conference is for the purpose of giving instruction and guidance to Christian Education leaders who have been invited by local communities to conduct Christian Leadership Conferences. The community is furnished with a team of four persons who have expertise in teaching methods and techniques in the areas of children, youth and adult Christian education. They furnish the type of training program requested by the community--a one-day training session; a two-day session, including observation classes; and day and/or night seminars.

The Rev. Mr. Charles O. Churchill, executive Christian education for the Missouri Synod of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., is the chairman of the division of Christian education of the Missouri council of churches. This program division of the State Council of Churches sponsors the Leadership Education program.

Sikeston is among the communities included in the present schedules for Community Conferences.

AN "IF" FOR AN "IF" Can you multiply MCIV by CXI and get the right answer? One Detroit can, and he tried to confuse Detroit income-taxpayers by using Roman numerals throughout his return. He was asking for trouble but didn't get it. City income-tax director, Al Warren, says the return was checked by a man who was weary of handling routine returns, knew his Latin and galloped through the return happily. It turned out to be 100-percent correct, right down to the tenth of an I.

Best - Dressed Women For 1965 Are Named

NEW YORK AP -- Does an elegant sense of fashion run in families?

Mrs. Carter Bruden at 22 tops the 1965 list of the best-dressed women in the world, announced Thursday. She is the wife of a Columbia University law student from a socially prominent family, but more importantly, from a fashion viewpoint, she is the daughter of Mrs. William Paley, a member of the Fashion Hall of Fame.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy, who usually heads the best-dressed, was elevated to the Fashion Hall of Fame.

The former First Lady's younger sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, often on the list, lost out. Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, mother of the late President Kennedy, repeated from last year.

The Ford sisters--Anne and Charlotte--who recently became Mrs. Giancarlo Uzielli and Mrs. Stavros Niarchos, again were cited as one entry. "Their taste is identical, representing the best of the young international way of dressing," a list committee noted. Their mother, the former Mrs. Henry Ford II, is in the Fashion Hall of Fame.

Among the royal members on the list is Mrs. Angus Ogilvy, the Princess Alexandra of Kent, daughter of the Duchess of Kent, also in the Fashion Hall of Fame.

Then there are the Vanderbilts. Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt of New York placed second, and the former Gloria Vanderbilt, now wife of New York television director Wyatt Cooper, came in third.

The best-dressed list--compiled by a fashion committee from perhaps 2,500 votes cast by style experts around the world--goes in this order: Mrs. Burden; Mrs. Vanderbilt;

Mrs. Cooper; the Ford sisters; Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy; Mrs. Kirk Douglas, wife of the actor; Mrs. Ogilvy; actress Barbara Streisand; Mrs. Charles Englehard, wife of the mining magnate; Mrs. William McCormick Blair, wife of the American ambassador to the Philippines; Princess Luciana Pignatelli of Rome; and Princess Paola, wife of the Belgian crown prince.

To make way for newcomers, perennials on the list are frequently named to the Fashion Hall of Fame. Besides Mrs. Kennedy, five other list regulars were elevated for 1965: Mrs. Charles Wrightman, of New York and Palm Beach, Fla.; Queen Sirikit of Thailand; Dame Margot Fonteyn, British ballet star; actress Dina Merrill, and Mrs. Gilbert Miller, wife of the theatrical producer.

Husband to wife as curvaceous neighbor appears: "I used to dread winter, but since the invention of stretch-type ski pants I don't mind it nearly so much."

Sikeston Listed For Conference

UNION -- The annual statewide Leadership Education Coaching Conference for community leadership education training conferences personnel will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at the United Church of Christ Camp Mo-Val near here. The Coaching Conference is for the purpose of giving instruction and guidance to Christian Education leaders who have been invited by local communities to conduct Christian Leadership Conferences. The community is furnished with a team of four persons who have expertise in teaching methods and techniques in the areas of children, youth and adult Christian education. They furnish the type of training program requested by the community--a one-day training session; a two-day session, including observation classes; and day and/or night seminars. The Rev. Mr. Charles O. Churchill, executive Christian education for the Missouri Synod of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., is the chairman of the division of Christian education of the Missouri council of churches. This program division of the State Council of Churches sponsors the Leadership Education program. Sikeston is among the communities included in the present schedules for Community Conferences.

AN "Q" FOR AN "Q" Can you multiply MCIV by CXI and get the right answer? One Detroit can, and he tried to confuse Detroit income-taxpayers by using Roman numerals throughout his return.

He was asking for trouble but didn't get it. City income-tax director, Al Warren, says the return was checked by a man who was weary of handling routine returns, knew his Latin and galloped through the return happily. It turned out to be 100-percent correct, right down to the tenth of an I. ---Mark Belaire

Best - Dressed Women For 1965 Are Named

NEW YORK AP -- Does an elegant sense of fashion run in families? Mrs. Carter Bruden at 22 tops the 1965 list of the best-dressed women in the world, announced Thursday. She is the wife of a Columbia University law student from a socially prominent family, but more importantly, from a fashion viewpoint, she is the daughter of Mrs. William Paley, a member of the Fashion Hall of Fame.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy, who usually heads the best-dressed, was elevated to the Fashion Hall of Fame.

The former First Lady's younger sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, often on the list, lost out. Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, mother of the late President Kennedy, repeated from last year.

The Ford sisters--Anne and Charlotte -- who recently became Mrs. Giancarlo Uzielli and Mrs. Stavros Niarchos, again were cited as an entry. "Their taste is identical, representing the best of the young international way of dressing," a list committee noted. Their mother, the former Mrs. Henry Ford II, is in the Fashion Hall of Fame.

Among the royal members on the list is Mrs. Angus Ogilvy, the Princess Alexandra of Kent, daughter of the Duchess of Kent, also in the Fashion Hall of Fame.

Then there are the Vanderbilts. Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt of New York placed second, and the former Gloria Vanderbilt, now wife of New York television director Wyatt Cooper, came in third.

The best-dressed list--compiled by a fashion committee from perhaps 2,500 votes cast by style experts around the world -- goes in this order: Mrs. Burden; Mrs. Vanderbilt;

Mrs. Cooper; the Ford sisters; Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy; Mrs. Kirk Douglas, wife of the actor; Mrs. Ogilvy; actress Barbra Streisand; Mrs. Charles Englehard, wife of the mining magnate; Mrs. William McCormick Blair, wife of the American ambassador to the Philippines; Princess Luciana Pignatelli of Rome; and Princess Paola, wife of the Belgian crown prince.

To make way for newcomers, perennials on the list are frequently named to the Fashion Hall of Fame. Besides Mrs. Kennedy, five other list regulars were elevated for 1965: Mrs. Charles Wrightman, of New York and Palm Beach, Fla.; Queen Sirikit of Thailand; Dame Margot Fonteyn, British ballet star; actress Diana Merrell; and Mrs. Gilbert Miller, wife of the theatrical producer.

Joe Lewis Hired by Cassius Clay

NEW YORK AP -- Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, unbeaten in his 22 pro fights, has hired Joe Lewis to work with him "because it's time Joe was a winner."

The former heavyweight king will have plenty of chances to be with a winner said Clay in announcing that he hopes to have four title fights this year. He said No. 1 may be announced by Tuesday.

"I want the first one within 10 weeks to three months," said Clay, who celebrated his 24th birthday today.

Clay, or Muhammad Ali as he prefers to be called, named Doug Jones of New York, Ernie Terrell of Chicago, George Chuvalo of Toronto and England's Brian London as the four possible opponents for this year, adding that Jones "is the most likely at this time."

The champion announced the hiring of Louis "for training and advising" and his fight plans in accepting the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque as Fighter of the year. Louis sat next to him at the Boxing Writers Association's annual dinner at the Waldorf Astoria Sunday night.

Louis has worked with a string of losers. His last one was Sonny Liston for the return fight with Clay. The Big Bear went out in the first round.

Billy Casper Wins San Diego Open

SAN DIEGO, Calif. AP -- Billy Casper has triumphed in 30 PGA tournaments but none exceeded the thrill of victory in Sunday's San Diego Open.

The 34-year-old Casper, veteran of 11 pro years, finally won before the home folks by blazing a trail of seven birdies for a last-round 64 and a 16-under-par 268 for 72 holes.

"I've always wanted to win at home," said Casper, "so this is a very gratifying victory. I worked awful hard last year but couldn't win it when I shot a 64 on the last round and tied the tournament record."

Casper and Wes Ellis of West Caldwell, N.Y., tied 267s in 1965 but Ellis won on the first hole of the playoff.

This tourney was worth $40,000, and Casper's share was $5,800.

Four strokes behind in second place were Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga., and Tom Weiskopf of Columbus, Ohio. Don January, a veteran on the tour from Dallas, faltered to a 73 and 72-hole score of 273, tying for third with young Paul Bonadona of Palm Springs, Calif., who fired a par 71.

Defending champion Ellis carded a 73 in the final round after a 68-69-68-205 had kept him in contention.

Howardville Wins Two

PORTAGEVILLE -- Howardville swept two games from the home town five here Saturday night winning the "B" game 72-27 and the "A" 83-40.

Howardville had three players scoring in double figures in the "B" contest with McClatchey, Freeman, and Early scoring 20, 18, and 11 points respectively. For Portageville it was Play hitting for 10 points.

Howardville dominated the "A" game as the Hawks swept to a 12-8 first period lead and was never threatened by the host team.

Anderson led the Hawk scoring attack with 21 points followed by team-mate C. Gasper with 13.

Scoring:
Howardville: McFerren 10, C. Gasper 13, Anderson 21, Jones 9, Jenkins 8, J. Gasper 10, Samelton 6, and Taylor 6. FG 33, FT 17, F 10.
Portageville: Phillips 9, Pullum 1, Totty 1, Fiddler 9, Arrington 4, Hamra 8, and Stewart 8. FG 12, FT 16, F 18.

Cape No. Two In MIAA Standings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missouri college conference races hit a lull this week as semester examinations begin. Only one league game is scheduled. That is a Saturday game in the MACU with William Jewell traveling to Missouri Valley. The game does not have a strong bearing on the title race since both teams have 4-2 records and are two games behind pace-setting Drury.

Jewell got back on the winning track Saturday night, using 43 points from Homer Drew to spill Central Methodist 96-77. In other MACU games, Westminster dumped Graceland 93-64 and Culver-Stockton won its first league game 76-59 from Tarkio.

Only one MIAA game was played last Saturday but it turned out to be a big one for Maryville. The Bears defeated Kirksville 62-60 for the first Maryville sweep of a series with the Bulldogs in 20 years.

In non-league games league-leading Springfield lost its third straight on an eastern swing, 73-62, to Steubenville, Ohio, and Rolla won from MacMurray, Ill. 86-77.

Southwest Baptist, playing its first season as a 4-year college, pulled a big upset by defeating Lincoln University 96-84. Lincoln received a 27-point performance from Marshall Evans, while Chuck Caldwell topped the Baptists with 23. It was only Lincoln's third setback of the season.

This week's complete schedule:

Tonight -- Tennessee State at Lincoln.

Tuesday -- Westminster at Park, Ottawa at Warrensburg, Kirksville at Western Illinois.

Thursday -- Bethany at Warrensburg.

Friday -- Peru, Neb. at Tarkio.

Saturday -- Lincoln at Kirksville, McKendree, Ill., at Park, Jewell at Valley, William Penn, Iowa at Graceland, Eastern Illinois at Cape Girardeau.

Sunday -- St. Benedict's at Rockhurst.

NEW ORLEANS, La. AP -- Two platoon football for colleges is here to stay--at least for another year, that is.

The NCAA Football Rules Committee decided Sunday against placing any proposals to change substitution rules on the agenda for action at today's closing session.

The committee felt the present rule was satisfactory and it acted in the interest of stabilization," said NCAA spokesman Wiles Hallock.

AFL Talks Of Expansion

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) -- Expansion was the No. 1 topic at the American Football League meetings today after a long weekend of house-cleaning in which nine players, including San Diego's mammoth Ernie Ladd and Earl Faison, were shipped to new locations.

The kickoff was the Ladd-Faison trade, with the two all-league defensive standouts sent to Houston in a five-player deal considered the biggest in AFL history and accompanied by one of the league's biggest fuses.

In addition to Ladd and Faison, San Diego Coach Sid Gillman gave the Oilers a piece of his mind for "tampering" while accepting three players in exchange -- linebacker Johnny Baker, defensive end Gary Cutsinger and cornerback Pete Jackson.

The multi-player trade was announced Saturday during the second period of the AFL All-Stars' 30-19 victory over Buffalo while Ladd and Faison still were playing. Then on Sunday, San Diego lost tight end Dave Kocourke, a second team All-AFL selection.

Kocourke, Buffalo fullback Billy Joe, quarterback Eddie Wilson of Boston and New York linebacker Wahoo McDaniel were selected by the Miami Dolphins as the first of 32 veteran players they will receive under the AFL stocking formula.

With the first of the expected player shifts made, attention focused on the league owners, who had expansion listed as the main item on the official agenda. Preliminary discussions were started with an eye toward expansion to a 10th team for the 1967 season.

Heading the list of franchise applicants were Chicago, Los Angeles and Anaheim, Calif.; Washington, D.C.; Milwaukee, Portland, Ore., and Phoenix, Ariz. It was expected that if a decision could not be reached the list would at least be pared.

The Dolphins, who become operational as the ninth team this year, are expected to name four more of their selections today.

Under the stocking plan, the existing eight teams freeze 23 players. Miami then selects two from each team. Each of the existing clubs then freeze another player and the Dolphins make two additional selections, winding up with four players from each team.

The Scott Mississippi Conference tournament will be at Scott City with Oran seeded first, Scott Central second, Benton Kelly third and Ilmo-Scott City fourth. Tonight's action will pit St. Henry against East Prairie at 6:30 followed by the Charleston-Ilmo-Scott City game at 9:30.

In the "B" bracket Scott Central is seeded first, Ilmo-Scott City second, Charleston third, and Oran fourth. Tonight E. Prairie and St. Henry will play at 5:00 followed by the Delta-Oran match at 8:00.

Officials will be John Lawson, Vernon Pennington, Jay W. Monday and Floyd Shearer.

Some of the area's top teams are in participation and this tournament will prove to be a very fine tournament as each team is capable of beating the other on any given night.

Eddie McClellan Jr. High

Member of

Swim Team

SEARCY, Ark. -- Eddie McClellan, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. McClellan, is a member of the Harding College Swim Team for the 1965-66 swim season.

McClellan, a graduate of Sikeston high school, where he was a member of the wrestling team and tennis team, swims the butterfly and is on several relay squads.

The Harding squad will actively compete in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference for the first time this year. Last year the Bisons had two swimmers in the AIC meet but they entered on their own.

Thus far this year the team has had several dual meets with members of their conference and they are undefeated. Johnny Berryhill coaches the squad and he has molded the team of freshmen and sophomores into a title contender.

McClellan is a sophomore political science major.

Detroit Will Bid

For 1972 Olympics

CHICAGO AP -- It took three ballots before Detroit gained a simple majority edge over Los Angeles to win the honor of being the U. S. city to bid at the international level for the 1972 Summer Olympic Games.

Salt Lake City was designated on the first ballot to bid for the 1972 Winter Olympiad.

The action came Saturday in a vote of 42 members of the U. S. Olympic Committee meeting in Chicago.

For the eighth time the Motor City will be bidding for the Summer Games, never having won them. In 1964, Detroit finished second to Mexico City when the International Olympic Committee awarded the 1968 site.

The 1968 Winter Games will be at Grenoble, France.

Doug Roby of Detroit, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, thinks both U.S. cities, especially Detroit, will have a difficult time landing the 1972 Games when the final vote comes before the international body in Rome late in April.

Bidding against Detroit will be Montreal, Munich, Germany, and probably Madrid--Barcelona. The Banff area in Calgary, around Lake Louise in Canada, also is bidding for the Winter Games.

The 34-year-old Casper, veteran of 11 pro years, finally won before the home folks by blazing a trail of seven birdies for a last-round 64 and a 16-under-par 268 for 72 holes.

"I've always wanted to win at home," said Casper, "so this is a very gratifying victory. I worked awful hard last year but couldn't win it when I shot a 64 on the last round and tied the tournament record.

Casper and Wes Ellis of West Caldwell, N.Y., fired 267s in 1965 but Ellis won on the first hole of the playoff.

This tourney was worth $40,000, and Casper's share was $5,800.

Four strokes behind in second place were Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga., and Tom Weiskopf of Columbus, Ohio.

Don January, a veteran on the tour from Dallas, faltered to a 73 and 72-hole score of 273, tying for third with young Paul Bonadon of Palm Springs, Calif., who fired a par 71.

Defending champion Ellis carded a 73 in the final round after a 68-69-68-205 had kept him in contention.

Howardville Wins Two

PORTAGEVILLE -- Howardville swept two games from the home town five here Saturday night winning the "B" game 72-27 and the "A" 83-40.

Howardville had three players scoring in double figures in the "B" contest with McClatchey, Freeman, and Early scoring 20, 18, and 11 points respectively. For Portageville it was Play hitting for 10 points.

Howardville dominated the "A" game as the Hawks swept to a 12-8 first period lead and was never threatened by the host team.

Anderson led the Hawk scoring attack with 21 points followed by team-mate C. Glasper with 13.

Scoring:
Howardville: McFerren 10, C. Glasper 13, Anderson 21, Jones 9, Jenkins 8, J. Glasper 10, Samelson 6, and Taylor 6. FG 33, FT 17, F 10.
Portageville: Phillips 9, Pulum 1, Totty 1, Fiddler 9, Arington 4, Hamra 6, and Stewart 8. FG 12, FT 16, F 18.
Score by quarters:
Howardville 12 25 16 30
Portageville 8 9 12 11

Missouri college conference races hit a lull this week as semester examinations begin.

Only one league game is scheduled. That is a Saturday game in the MACU with William Jewell traveling to Missouri Valley. The game does not have a strong bearing on the title race since both teams have 4-2 records and are two games behind pace-setting Drury.

Jewell got back on the winning track Saturday night, using 43 points from Homer Drew to spill Central Methodist 96-77. In other MACU games, Westminster dumped Graceland 93-64 and Culver-Stockton won its first league game 76-59 from Tarkio.

Only one MIAA game was played last Saturday but it turned out to be a big one for Maryville. The Bears defeated Kirksville 62-60 for the first Maryville sweep of a series with the Bulldogs in 20 years.

In non-league games league-leading Springfield lost its third straight game on eastern swing, 73-62, to Steubenville, Ohio, and Rolla won from MacMurray, Ill. 86-77.

Southwest Baptist, playing its first season as a 4-year college, pulled a big upset by defeating Lincoln University 96-84. Lincoln received a 27-point performance from Marshall Evans, while Chuck Caldwell topped the Baptists with 23. It was only Lincoln's third setback of the season.

This week's complete schedule:
Tonight -- Tennessee State at Lincoln.
Tuesday -- Westminster at Park, Ottawa at Warrensburg, Kirksville at Western Illinois.
Thursday -- Bethany at Warrensburg.
Friday -- Peru, Neb. at Tarkio.
Saturday -- Lincoln at Kirksville, McKendree, Ill., at Park, Jewell at Valley, William Penn, Iowa at Graceland, Eastern Illinois at Cape Girardeau.
Sunday -- St. Benedict's at Rockhurst.

NEW ORLEANS, La. AP -- Two platoon football for colleges is here to stay--at least for another year, that is.

The NCAA Football Rules Committee decided Sunday against placing any proposals to change substitution rules on the agenda for action at today's closing session.

The committee felt the present rule was satisfactory and it acted in the interest of stabilization," said NCAA spokesman Wiles Hallcock.

AFL Talks Of Expansion

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) -- Expansion was the No. 1 topic at the American Football League meetings today after a long weekend of house-cleaning in which nine players, including San Diego's mammoth Ernie Ladd and Earl Faison, were shipped to new locations.

The kickoff was the Ladd-Faison trade, with the two all-league defensive standouts sent to Houston in a five-player deal considered the biggest in AFL history and accompanied by one of the league's biggest fuses.

In addition to Ladd and Faison, San Diego Coach Sid Gillman gave the Oilers a piece of his mind for "tampering" while accepting three players in exchange -- linebacker Johnny Baker, defensive end Gary Cutsinger and cornerback Pete Jaquess.

The multi-player trade was announced Saturday during the second period of the AFL All-Stars' 30-19 victory over Buffalo while Ladd and Faison still were playing. Then on Sunday, San Diego lost tight end Dave Kocourke, a second team All-AFL selection.

Kocourke, Buffalo fullback Billy Joe, quarterback Eddie Wilson of Boston and New York linebacker Walter McDaniel were selected by the Miami Dolphins as the first of 32 veteran players they will receive under the AFL stocking formula.

With the first of the expected player shifts made, attention focused on the league owners, who had expansion listed as the main item on the official agenda.

Preliminary discussions were started with an eye toward expansion to a 10th team for the 1967 season.

Heading the list of franchise applicants were Chicago, Los Angeles and Anaheim, Calif.; Washington, D.C.; Milwaukee, Portland, Ore., and Phoenix, Ariz. It was expected that if a decision could not be reached the list would at least be pared.

The Dolphins, who become operational as the ninth team this year, are expected to name four more of their selections today.

Under the stocking plan, the existing eight teams freeze 23 players. Miami then selects two from each team. Each of the existing clubs then freeze another player and the Dolphins make two additional selections, winding up with four players from each team.

however, the stocking of the Dolphins was by the Ladd-Faison deal and Gillman's blast at Houston Owner Bud Adams for making inflammatory monetary statements that affected San Diego's bargaining position.

The 6-foot-3, 295-pound Ladd and 6-5, 270-pound Faison both had publicly expressed disenchantment with Gillman's reign as coach and general manager and announced they were playing out their options.

Gillman, in turn, said he would not have such players on his team. So it came as somewhat of a surprise when he issued his blast Saturday, saying: "When an owner makes a statement to the press that he is interested in such-and-such a player and will give a certain amount of money, that's tampering. Those kind of offers made our bargaining position impossible."

Adams, who recently said he had offered the Chargers three players plus $100,000 for Ladd alone, said that Gillman had initiated the trade talks.

"Gillman is just mad because he is losing two all-league players," Adams said. "He came to us during the exhibition season and first mentioned a trade involving Faison or Ladd or both."

Hayti Men Bound Over

KENNETT -- Two Hayti men waived preliminary hearings on grand larceny charges in Magistrate Court and were bound over to circuit court for trial.

The men, Robert Edward Cotner, 19, and Charles Gary Kaiser, 22, are charged with stealing an adding machine from the Clinton Construction Co. on December 31.

Included in the proceedings of magistrate court over which Judge Leon McNally presided and Prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker represented the State, was the continuance of a preliminary hearing for Kenneth Hayes, 17, of Clarkton to Wednesday, Jan. 26, on a charge of tampering with a motor vehicle.

A disturbing the peace charge against Bill Brooks, 23, of Clarkton, was continued to Thursday.

Scott Mississippi Conference Tournament

The Scott Mississippi Conference tournament will be at Scott City with Oran seeded first, Scott Central second, Benton Kelly third and Ilmo-Scott City fourth. Tonight's action will pit St. Henry against East Prairie at 6:30 followed by the Charleston-Ilmo-Scott City game at 9:30.

In the "B" bracket Scott Central is seeded first, Ilmo-Scott City second, Charleston third, and Oran fourth. Tonight E. Prairie and St. Henry will play at 5:00 followed by the Delta-Oran match at 8:00.

Officials will be John Lawson, Vernon Pennington, Jay W. Mondy and Floyd Shearer. Some of the area's top teams are in participation and this tournament will prove to be a very fine tournament as each team is capable of beating the other on any given night.

Eddie McClellan Jr. High Member of Swim Team

SEARCY, Ark. -- Eddie McClellan, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. McClellan, is a member of the Harding College Swim Team for the 1965-66 swim season.

McClellan, a graduate of Sikeston high school where he was a member of the wrestling team and tennis team, swims the butterfly and is on several relay squads.

The Harding squad will actively compete in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference for the first time this year. Last year the Bisons had two swimmers in the AIC meet but they entered on their own.

Thus far this year the team has had several dual meets with members of their conference and they are undefeated. Johnny Berryhill coaches the squad and he has molded the team of freshmen and sophomores into a title contender.

McClellan is a sophomore political science major.

DETROIT Will Bid For 1972 Olympics

CHICAGO AP -- It took three ballots before Detroit gained a simple majority edge over Los Angeles to win the honor of being the U. S. city to bid at the international level for the 1972 Summer Olympic Games.

Salt Lake City was designated on the first ballot to bid for the 1972 Winter Olympics.

The action came Saturday in a vote of 42 members of the U. S. Olympic Committee meeting in Chicago.

For the eighth time the Motor City will be bidding for the Summer Games, never having won them. In 1964, Detroit finished second to Mexico City when the International Olympic Committee awarded the 1968 site.

The 1968 Winter Games will be at Grenoble, France.

Doug Roby of Detroit, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, thinks both U.S. cities, especially Detroit, will have a difficult time landing the 1972 Games when the final vote comes before the international body in Rome late in April.

Bidding against Detroit will be Montreal; Munich, Germany, and probably Madrid-Barcelona. The Banff area in Calgary, around Lake Louise in Canada, also is bidding for the Winter Games.

CREDIT AND INTEREST

Homer J. Livingston
Chairman of the Board
The First National Bank of Chicago

As our unprecedented peacetime expansion completes its fifth year, the productive resources of the nation — plant, equipment, labor force and capital — are approaching maximum utilization. With the principal exception of steel, plant operations in most major industries are approaching optimum levels. There is also increasing evidence of labor shortages, especially of skilled workers. In addition, there has been an unparalleled flow of savings and investment in the years of 1961-65. Credit expansion totaled over $290 billion, 60 per cent greater than in the previous five year interval. In these circumstances, price stability is being threatened by demand pressures.

The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, responding to these developments, has quite properly in my judgment gradually diminished the credit expanding powers of the nation's banks by limiting the reserves of the banking system. The Chairman of the Board of Governors observed last week that as an economy approaches full employment "new injections of bank credit and money will serve to raise prices more than production."

Phillips to Federal Post

HAYTI -- Lloyd Phillips, principal of the North elementary school, has been selected to serve as assistant director for the six County Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation, according to James Demond of Holcomb, chairman of the regional anti-poverty corporation.

The selection of Phillips was made at a special meeting of the board, Monday night at the Delta Research Center in Portageville.

Earl Williams, former principal of the Charleston-Aniston junior high school was named director of the corporation at a similar meeting last month. These men were chosen for their respective positions from a field of 54 applicants.

Williams will draw a salary of from $10,000 to $12,000 and Phillips will draw a salary of between $8,000 and $10,000. They will be responsible for developing and administering the Economic Opportunity Programs for a six-county area. Offices for the DAEOC are located at the Delta Research Center at Portageville.

Besides serving as Principal of North Elementary School in Hayti, Phillips serves as high school guidance counselor, assistant basketball coach, and director of the Hayti Community Action Agency which handles local arrangements for anti-poverty programs. He submitted his resignation to the Hayti Board of Education this week, effective February 1, 1966. At the present time it is not known who will be his successor as principal and counselor.

Phillips is a graduate of the Doniphan high school and attended Arkansas State College and University of Missouri. He received his Master of Science in Education degree from Arkansas State College, and previously taught in the Wardell school system. Mrs. Phillips is also a member of the Hayti high school faculty, and they will continue to live in Hayti.

to accommodate credit users during this five year expansion, interest rates with a few notable exceptions, such as mortgage rates and the prime commercial bank rate, have moved rather steadily upward. Currently the interest rate structure generally is at the highest level in thirty-five years except for a few months late in 1959 and early in 1960.

In addition to limiting the reserves of the banking system, the Federal Reserve has increased the discount rate three times in the 1961-65 period, the most being the increase from 4 to 4 1/2 per cent early this month in order further to discourage the expansion of credit as customer borrowing demands on the commercial banks continued. With the reserve position of the banks under considerable pressure, and confronted with a growing demand for funds, the cost of which has risen steadily, the commercial banks increased the prime rate on December 6, the first change since August, 1960, and the first increase in over six years. The interest rate — the price of money — is thus performing its classic and proper function in a free market, namely, of allocating a resource whose demand exceeds its limited supply.

In my judgment, the demand for funds in the first half of next year will continue strong. I therefore believe the present interest rate structure will remain firm in the months that lie ahead.

White House Wit

DWIGHT DAVID EISENHOWER

President 1953-1961

Commenting during the 1956 campaign about his speechwriters, Eisenhower said: "Gosh, someone around here is always feeding me all these 'folksy' phrases. Hell, I'm folksy enough as it is, without their trying to make matters worse."

Eisenhower's speech in Stratford, Virginia:

"There was a man in Louisiana condemned to be hanged under the state law he was allowed five minutes to give whatever last words he might choose to speak on that occasion. Well, he thought a moment and he says, 'Well, I haven't got anything to say — get on with it.' A man in the audience rose and said, 'If he doesn't want those five minutes, Mr. Sheriff, let me have them because I am running for Congress.'"

When a close friend blunders at bridge, Eisenhower often tells the story about the old colonel who cut into a subordinate's apology with:

"No explanation is necessary because none would be satisfactory."

Antoine Lavoisier, the 18th century French chemist considered to be the father of modern chemistry, was guillotined in 1794 during the French Revolution and his body thrown into a common grave with 27 other victims. A witness was heard to say: "It required only a moment to sever that head and perhaps a century will not be sufficient to produce another like it."

THIS IS not a Viet Nam war action picture. Pfc. Franklin D. Ellsworth, son of Mrs. Eunice Ellsworth, route one, sleeps in his tent 10 miles inside the Iron Triangle. He is a teletype operator stationed with the 85th Ordnance Company. He enlisted in the army in 1959 and went to Viet Nam in October.

HEAD OFF ILLNESS

People who follow health news in newspapers or magazines and on radio and TV often prevent serious illness from developing by consulting their physicians when symptoms first appear. They are often able to describe their symptoms accurately and thus assist the doctor in making correct diagnoses. This commendation of the mass media comes from Drs. Diegfried Scheffert and Helmut Klepzig who questioned 200 of their patients in order to evaluate the effect of the news media on health education.

Contrary to popular opinion, the researchers found that such reading does not cause patients to develop imaginary ills or to take their illnesses more seriously than they should.

FATHER'S AGE GOOD REASON FOR FAMILY PLANNING

It has long been known that older women run greater risks of having complicated pregnancies than younger women, and that the incidence of birth defects and prematurity is also higher among older women. Now there is evidence that the age of the father (apart from that of the mother) can also affect the offspring negatively.

Canadian researchers Howard B. Newcombe and Olwyn G. Tavenale of the biology branch of the Chalk River Nuclear Laboratories analyzed almost 9,000 registrations of handicaps and deaths among children born in British Columbia in a recent six-year period. They found the following: Congenital malformations were about 30 percent more common and deaths from respiratory disease were 60 percent higher among children of fathers over 45 years of age.

"There can be little doubt," one medical journal commented, "that the aging father has an increasing chance of producing a child with a congenital anomaly as compared with the young father."

ART IN HOSPITALS LIFTS PATIENT MORALE

Fear and apprehension, boredom and loneliness — these are the abominations that must be eliminated from the hospital scene if a patient's recovery is to be speeded. One graceful way to do this is to hang beautiful, colorful paintings on drab hospital walls — in private rooms, wards, waiting rooms, clinics, and public areas. This is exactly what a group of enterprising women volunteers of New York's United Hospital Fund started doing some 15 years ago, beginning with a modest

Here and There Driver and Boy Both Die

The driver, a 67-year-old doctor, got out of his car and collapsed with a heart attack. He also died.

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — New Jersey will need at least 1,500 new vocational education teachers by 1968, a committee of college deans says.

The committee told the State Education Department that teachers are needed to accommodate new and expanded programs ranging from the war on poverty to federal manpower training programs.

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — A counseling service for veterans, dependents, servicemen and future servicemen is comparable to a new industry, says Pete Wheeler, state Veterans Administration director.

Wheeler said the service would probably involve money to compare with acquisition of a new industry.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A burning trash truck made a run to Fire Station No. 35, but there was only one fireman on hand — a battalion chief — and he had only a garden hose.

The other firemen were testing their equipment at the Fire Department Academy. The garden hose was inadequate, so a pumper truck from Station No. 4 rumbled over to No. 35 and put out the fire.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — William E. Radford said he was cleaning up his barber shop when a masked man walked in, took $37 from the cash register and Radford's wallet containing $90.

Minutes later the gunman called Radford's home to say he had deposited the wallet in a mailbox, Radford said. The wallet showed up at the post office — minus the money.

Long, in remarks prepared for the Missouri Savings and Loan League, said the investigation has "convinced me that Congress must take action to stop the growing use of wiretapping and snooping devices by the federal government. If Congress fails to act, he said, "we may suddenly wake up in a naked society, a 1984 in which all are being watched by big brother."

School Reduces Number on Aid

CAIRO -- After one year of operation the Cairo Adult and Vocational School has made definite inroads towards reducing Public Aid and general assistance rolls in lower Southern Illinois.

A total of 90 cases have been removed from public aid rolls as a result of the recipients securing jobs because of training acquired at the school.

These figures were revealed by Thomas R. Smith, superintendent of the Alexander County public aid department.

He said that 49 of those cases removed from relief rolls were on county public aid rolls; 36 cases were on the county general assistance rolls and five cases were taken off relief rolls in other counties.

"For Alexander county alone, the removal of 49 public aid and 36 general assistance cases means we have saved $105,768 during the past year," Smith declared.

In addition to those persons leaving the relief rolls to take employment, eight cases in the county have ceased to be totally dependent on public aid and are now receiving only supplemental aid, Smith explained. Another seven cases are still receiving assistance, but have advanced through the school and are now furthering their education by taking higher levels of training at college vocational training institutes.

When the adult and vocational school was created one year ago by the Board of Education in cooperation with the Illinois department of public aid 81 persons were enrolled in the school.

Today, there are 371 students attending classes five days per week. Wayne Shiffrer, school director, said the enrollment would increase by 100 within another six weeks and may encompass 1,000 students by the end of the second year of operation.

Spears and Swaim

Given Academy Nod

WASHINGTON -- Five young men from Southeast Missouri have been nominated by Rep. Paul C. Jones, Kenneth Democrat, as principal appointees to the three service academies. Ten others have been named alternates.

Two will enter the air force academy in Colorado; two will enter the military academy at West Point; and one will enter the naval academy at Annapolis, about July 1.

Before acceptance they must meet physical and mental requirements.

The two principal nominees to the air force academy are Bradley Allen Barnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Barnes of Steele, who will be graduated in June from South Pemiscot high school; and Richard A. Woodward of Parma, who is attending Niceville high school near Eglin Air Force Base in Florida, where his father, Sgt. Albert Woodward, is stationed while following a career in the air force.

The first and second alternates to Barnes are Doyle Sanford Sanders, Jr., a graduate of West Plains high school, attending the University of Missouri; and James Walter Daume, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Daume of Route One, Cape Girardeau, attending College High School in Cape Girardeau. The alternates are Randy Glenn Holdman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Holdman of route two, Bonne Terre; and David Wayne Krekel, son of Perry L. Krekel, route two, Cape Girardeau.

Ronald Eugene Spears, son of Mrs. Eugene Spears, who will graduate this spring from Sikeston High School, and Allen Lee Swaim, son of Col. and Mrs. Allan Swaim of Des Moines, where Colonel Swaim is senior army advisor of the fifth army advisory group, and who maintain their legal residence at Sikeston, have been nominated for the two principal appointments to the military academy. First and second alternates to Spears are Cyril Wallace Scherer, Jr., of Cape Girardeau, who is stationed with the army security agency training school at Ft. Outlook for Business for the first six months of 1966

CREDIT AND INTEREST

RATES
Homer J. Livingston
Chairman of the Board
The First National Bank of Chicago

As our unprecedented peacetime expansion completes its fifth year, the productive resources of the nation — plant, equipment, labor force and capital — are approaching maximum utilization. With the principal exception of steel, plant operations in most major industries are approaching optimum levels. There is also increasing evidence of labor shortages, especially of skilled workers. In addition, there has been an unparalleled flow of savings and investment in the years of 1961-65. Credit expansion totaled over $290 billion, 60 per cent greater than in the previous five year interval. In these circumstances, price stability is being threatened by demand pressures.

The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, responding to these developments, has quite properly in my judgment gradually diminished the credit expanding powers of the nation's banks by limiting the reserves of the banking system. The Chairman of the Board of Governors observed last week that as an economy approaches full employment "new injections of bank credit and money will serve to raise prices more than production."

To attract the funds required to accommodate credit users during this five year expansion, interest rates with a few notable exceptions, such as mortgage rates and the prime commercial bank rate, have moved rather steadily upward. Currently the interest rate structure generally is at the highest level in thirty-five years except for a few months late in 1959 and early in 1960.

In addition to limiting the reserves of the banking system, the Federal Reserve has increased the discount rate three times in the 1961-65 period, the most being the increase from 4 to 4½ per cent early this month in order further to discourage the expansion of credit as customer borrowing demands on the commercial banks continued. With the reserve position of the banks under considerable pressure, and confronted with a growing demand for funds, the cost of which has risen steadily, the commercial banks increased the prime rate on December 6, the first change since August, 1960, and the first increase in over six years. The interest rate—the price of money — is thus performing its classic and proper function in a free market, namely, of allocating a resource whose demand exceeds its limited supply.

In my judgment, the demand for funds in the first half of next year will continue strong. I therefore believe the present interest rate structure will remain firm in the months that lie ahead.

Phillips to Federal Post

HAYTI -- Lloyd Phillips, principal of the North elementary school, has been selected to serve as assistant director for the six county Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation, according to James Dement, of Holcomb, chairman of the regional anti-poverty corporation.

The selection of Phillips was made at a special meeting of the board, Monday night at the Delta Research Center in Portageville.

Earl Williams, former principal of the Charleston-Annis-ton junior high school was named director of the corporation at a similar meeting last month. These men were chosen for their respective positions from a field of 54 applicants.

Williams will draw a salary of from $10,000 to $12,000 and Phillips will draw a salary of between $8,000 and $10,000. They will be responsible for developing and administering the Economic Opportunity Programs for a six-county area.

Offices for the DAEOC are located at the Delta Research Center at Portageville.

Besides serving as Principal of North Elementary School in Hayti, Phillips serves as high school guidance counselor, assistant basketball coach, and director of the Hayti Community Action program which handles local arrangements for anti-poverty programs. He submitted his resignation to the Hayti Board of Education this week, effective February 1, 1966. At the present time it is not known who will be his successor as principal and counselor.

Phillips is a graduate of the Doniphan high school and attended Arkansas State College and University of Missouri. He received his Master of Science in Education degree from Arkansas State College, and previously taught in the Wardell school system. Mrs. Phillips is also a member of the Hayti high school faculty, and they will continue to live in Hayti.

White House Wit

DWIGHT DAVID EISENHOWER
President 1953-1961

Commenting during the 1956 campaign about his speechwriters, Eisenhower said: "Gosh, someone around here is always feeding me all these 'folksy' phrases. Hell, I'm folksy enough as it is, without their trying to make matters worse."

Eisenhower's speech in Stratford, Virginia:

"There was a man in Louisiana condemned to be hanged and under the state law he was allowed five minutes to give whatever last words he might choose to speak on that occasion. Well, he thought a moment and he says, 'Well, I haven't got anything to say — get on with it.' A man in the audience rose and said, 'If he doesn't want those five minutes, Mr. Sheriff, let me have them because I am running for Congress.'"

When a close friend blunders at bridge, Eisenhower often tells the story about the old colonel who cut into a subordinate's apology with:

"No explanation is necessary because none would be satisfactory."

Antoine Lavoisier, the 18th century French chemist considered to be the father of modern chemistry, was guillotined in 1794 during the French Revolution and his body thrown into a common grave with 27 other victims. A witness was heard to say: "It required only a moment to sever that head and perhaps a century will not be sufficient to produce another like it."

THIS IS not a Viet Nam war action picture. Pfc. Franklin D. Ellsworth, son of Mrs. Eunice Ellsworth, route one, sleeps in his tent 10 miles inside the Iron Triangle. He is a teletype operator stationed with the 85th ordnance company. He enlisted in the army in 1959 and went to Viet Nam in October.

Women's Health

INFORMED READERS
HEAD OFF ILLNESS

People who follow health news in newspapers or magazines and on radio and TV often prevent serious illness from developing by consulting their physicians when symptoms first appear. They are often able to describe their symptoms accurately and thus assist the doctor in making correct diagnoses. This commendation of the mass media comes from Drs. Diegriff Scheffler and Helmut Klepzig who questioned 200 of their patients in order to evaluate the effect of the news media on health education.

Contrary to popular opinion, the researchers found that such reading does not cause patients to develop imaginary ills or to take their illnesses more seriously than they should.

FATHER'S AGE GOOD REASON FOR FAMILY PLANNING

It has long been known that older women run greater risks of having complicated pregnancies than younger women, and that the incidence of birth defects and prematurity is also higher among older women. Now there is evidence that the age of the father (apart from that of the mother) can also affect the offspring negatively.

Canadian researchers Howard B. Newcombe and Olwyn G. Tavelle of the biology branch of the Chalk River Nuclear Laboratories analyzed almost 3,000 registrations of handicaps and deaths among children born in British Columbia in a recent six-year period. They found the following: Congenital malformations were about 30 per cent more common and deaths from respiratory disease were 60 per cent higher among children of fathers over 45 years of age.

"There can be little doubt," one medical journal commented, "that the aging father has an increasing chance of producing a child with a congenital anomaly as compared with the young father."

ART IN HOSPITALS

LIFTS PATIENT MORALE
Fear and apprehension, boredom and loneliness — these are the abominations that must be eliminated from the hospital scene if a patient's recovery is to be speeded. One gracious way to do this is to hang beautiful, colorful paintings on drab hospital walls — in private rooms, wards, waiting rooms, clinics, and public areas. This is exactly what a group of enterprising women volunteers of New York's United Hospital Fund started doing some 15 years ago, beginning with a modest

Driver and Boy Both Die

HEPPENBACH, Belgium (AP) — A car skidded on a snow-covered road here just as a 6-year-old boy ran out of a school entrance. The boy was killed.

The driver, a 67-year-old doctor, got out of his car and collapsed with a heart attack. He also died.

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — New Jersey will need at least 1,500 new vocational education teachers by 1968, a committee of college deans says.

The committee told the State Education Department that teachers are needed to accommodate new and expanded programs ranging from the war on poverty to federal manpower training programs.

Break Laws, Long Charges U.S. Agents

KANSAS CITY AP -- Government agents are breaking laws, violating Americans' trust and have "submerged in a jungle of snooping, wiretapping, harassment, intimidation and threats," Sen. Edward V. Long said Friday.

"With an armory of electronic snooping devices, with little or no concern for our constitutional rights, these agents have been breaking almost every trust the American public has placed in them," said Long.

His Senate subcommittee has been investigating wiretapping by the Internal Revenue Service and other federal agencies.

Long, in remarks prepared for the Missouri Savings and Loan League, said the investigation has "convinced me that Congress must take action to stop the growing use of wiretapping and snooping devices by the federal government."

If Congress fails to act, he said, "we may suddenly wake up in a naked society, a 1984 in which all are being watched by big brother."

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — William E. Radford said he was cleaning up his barber shop when a masked man walked in, took $37 from the cash register and Radford's wallet containing $90.

Minutes later the gunman called Radford's home to say he had deposited the wallet in a mailbox, Radford said. The wallet showed up at the post office — minus the money.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A burning trash truck made a run to Fire Station No. 35, but there was only one fireman on hand — a battalion chief — and he had only a garden hose.

The other firemen were testing their equipment at the Fire Department Academy. The garden hose was inadequate, so a pumper truck from Station No. 4 rushed over to No. 35 and put out the fire.

Johnson Is Pleased With Peace Offensive Results

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is pleased with the results so far of his Viet Nam peace offensive. He is confident the travels of his special peace envoys are having a global impact still largely hidden behind a curtain of diplomatic secrecy.

Although there has been no outward evidence of a favorable response from Hanoi, Johnson remains hopeful of a breakthrough.

On the hopeful side, word has come through diplomatic channels that many countries visited by such traveling American diplomats as W. Averell Harriman and Arthur J. Goldberg are getting in direct touch with Hanoi — to urge steps toward peace.

Diplomatic traffic with the Communist government of North Viet Nam has reached a new peak since the concerted American peace effort began.

Some of this hidden diplomatic intervention has come from countries skeptical in the past about American policy.

If Hanoi remains deaf to such appeals, Johnson believes his efforts, at the very least, will reinforce his claim that there are obstacles to peace, the blame lies elsewhere.

In a sense, the Johnson peace offensive has been a developing thing, with the President personally ordering each new move, often on short notice.

It was shaped with the passage of time as Johnson made a succession of major decisions in which his politician's sense of timing played a great role.

The peace campaign had its beginning — in secrecy — at a Nov. 11 conference at the LBJ Ranch in Texas. Gathered at the comfortable ranch house on the banks of the Pedernales were the President, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, and presidential assistants McGeorge Bundy and Jack Valenti.

For many weeks, the administration had given periodic thought to a possible pause in American bombings of North Viet Nam as a potential means of dramatizing U.S. hopes for peace and, hopefully, encouraging a conciliatory response from Hanoi.

The ranch conference marked the first intensive discussion of this possibility, favored by many foreign leaders and by some people in this country who felt a five-day pause in May hadn't lasted long enough.

Johnson sent his advisers back to Washington with instructions to weigh carefully the pros and cons. No decision was reached at the time.

The President, recuperating from his Oct. 8 surgery, gave the matter much personal thought in the weeks that followed.

Then, on Dec. 7, Johnson convened another meeting of key advisers at his home place in Texas to go into the question further. This session was attended by Rusk, McNamara, Undersecretary of State George W. Ball, Bundy, presidential assistants Bill D. Moyers and Joseph A. Califano Jr., and Robert Komer, a Bundy deputy. McNamara was just back from Saigon.

Even after this conference, Johnson was not committed to a bombing pause or its possible timing. Consideration was given to action early in 1966 — possibly to coincide with the Vietnamese New Year's holiday on Jan. 21.

The President was committed, however, to a broadened search for peace. And two days later, in a telephone address to the AFL-CIO convention in San Francisco, he said he was "determined that every prospect for peace be exhausted before other hard steps are taken" in Viet Nam.

Johnson returned to Washington Dec. 13 for a series of meetings with foreign visitors: President Mohammad Ayub Khan of Pakistan, Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain and Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany.

Even as these international meetings progressed, Johnson was preoccupied with potential peace moves in Viet Nam. Sandwiched among his conferences with the visitors were meetings with top advisers, including two secret sessions with the National Security Council.

Out of these talks grew a decision — subject to ratification by the Saigon government — to propose a 30-hour Christmas cease-fire. The Viet Cong's political arm had called earlier on Dec. 7, for a 12-hour truce.

On Dec. 22, with Johnson back at the ranch, military officials in Saigon ordered the cease-fire. As part of this holiday package, American planes were to halt their bombing runs over North Viet Nam targets.

Even at this point, Johnson was not certain of his next move. Much would depend on immediate developments. For example, he knew that if the cease-fire ended in some incident like the Viet Cong bombing months earlier of the U.S. Embassy in Saigon, full warfare would have to be resumed. And the President wanted a chance to gauge American reaction to the Christmas lull before committing himself further.

One opportunity for a quick move toward peace evaporated when the Viet Cong repeatedly ignored the 30-hour cease-fire, nullifying a Johnson decision that fighting would not be resumed even after Christmas unless the other side fired first.

For two days after Christmas, Johnson made day-to-day decisions against resuming the bombing of North Viet Nam, although ground fighting was back in full swing.

Ultimately, on the night of Dec. 27, the President made up his mind that — if events permitted — he had the perfect opportunity to prolong the bombing lull. It was in keeping with the Christmas spirit and might advance the effort he had pledged anew in toasting Erhard at a White House dinner a week earlier: "We will push on every door for peace."

Pope Paul VI and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield may have influenced his decision. Both had called for a fighting lull extending well beyond Christmas.

Up to this point, Johnson had tried to stay very much in the background — a silent man who insisted that such questions as stopover that included a session with U.N. Secretary-General U Thant, the envoy was bound for Rome.

Roving Ambassador Harriman, a durable 74 with 20 years of cold war diplomacy behind him, got a Johnson call at about the same time: fly to Warsaw, Poland, for talks with the leaders of that Communist country which, along with Canada and India, is represented on the International Control Commission responsible for overseeing the 1954 Geneva "settlement" of the Viet Nam problem. Harriman had to duck out on a bridge game to make the flight.

Soon others were catching planes for distant places: Bundy for Canada; Undersecretary of State Thomas C. Mann for Mexico; Assistant Secretary of State G. Mennen Williams for Africa.

The Far Eastern goodwill mission of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, scheduled earlier, was expanded to encompass talk of Viet Nam with leaders in Japan, the Philippines, Nationalist China and South Korea. The U.S. ambassador in Moscow, Foy Kohler, paid an unusually long "courtesy call" on Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny.

Johnson's "peace doves" already have visited or scheduled stops in two dozen countries. More are being added and the envoys apparently will be circulating for at least another week.

Everywhere they are emphasizing what Humphrey called the American "peace basket proposals" — 14 items adding up to an administration view that virtually any difficulty in Viet Nam is negotiable, if only Hanoi will start talking.

The response from North Viet Nam, as reflected in public statements, has been distinctly negative. Epithets like "peace trick" are heard every few days.

How to measure a newspaper ad

- Assume, for a moment, that it were possible to clip this display message from each copy of this newspaper printed for today's issue, and that these clippings were neatly stacked before you.
- First, remove all clippings which appeared in copies spoiled in distribution, or which were otherwise undelivered, left over, returned, or used in our office for file or checking copies. Since no one read these, they can go into the wastepaper.
- Second, remove those messages which appeared in copies delivered to subscribers behind in their payments, service copies to advertisers and agencies, employees, any complimentary or promotion lists, and all others which do not qualify as paid circulation. Just for the record, you might want to count the number of these, but then they go into the wastepaper, too.
- Now our stack is down to only the paying customers. Count the number of clippings in the stack. When that's done (and the exact figure recorded), separate the clippings into three separate stacks—one for those distributed to readers in your central market; one for those distributed to readers living outside this market, but who shop here regularly; and one for those copies delivered to readers living elsewhere. Count each stack and, when you have these figures accurately recorded, divide the clippings in separate stacks by method of delivery (carriers, dealers, vendors, mail, and so forth), and count each stack.
- You look a little tired at this point—we'll help by counting the number of clippings appearing in copies sold with premiums, in combination with other publications, and at special rates. We'll also count the number sold in clubbing offers or as a result of a contest or with an insurance offer.
- Rested now? Give us a hand and we will sort out the clippings in separate stacks for each city and town in which copies were distributed (just exactly where every copy of this message went—to the paying customers only). Then we count each stack for the record.
- Now, while you relax and finish reading this message after counting and measuring our circulation in so many different ways, perhaps you would like to see what it costs each of the paying customers to buy a copy of this newspaper?
- Then again, if all this talking about some of the ways the Audit Bureau of Circulations regularly counts and measures our circulation has you tired out, just ask to see a copy of our latest ABC Report.
- ABC's stacks of figures aren't nearly as tiring and tell you a great deal more about the distribution of your advertising messages in this newspaper.

On Dec. 28, Johnson made the first moves to expand his peace efforts manyfold and, ultimately, to bring them into the open.

At noon, Johnson put through a telephone call to U.N. Amba-

Six Members Of Family Die

ABILENE, Kan. (AP)—Gerald D. Woods, 36, still unaware that six members of his family are dead, continued struggling back from the brink of death today. The deaths were attributed to an unvented gas heater in the living room of their home 13 miles north of Abilene.

The dead were Woods' wife, Ruth, 33; four of her children, David, 13, Dianne, 11, Debbie, 9, and Donna, 7, and Mrs. Woods' father, R. L. McNutt, 58, of Fort Collins, Colo.

A fifth child, Danny Woods, 5, escaped harm because he had stayed overnight with grandparents in Abilene.

The tragedy was discovered Saturday afternoon by a relative, Amer Reese of Abilene.

who stopped for a visit. Sheriff Wayne Woolverton said the deaths apparently occurred about bedtime Friday evening. Woods was found lying unconscious on the dining room floor. Mrs. Woods was in bed, her father in the bathroom, the girls on a dining room couch and David on a living room sofa. A daylight and the kitchen light were still on.

Woods, a driver for an Abilene laundry, was still listed in critical condition today.

The family had only recently moved into the two-story house, rented from John Schneider.

Memberships for Hospital Open

DEXTER -- Directors of the Dexter Memorial hospital encourage interested persons to register their membership. All applications should be mailed in no later than next Monday according to President John William Ringer.

In order to be registered as a member for the Feb. 10, 1966, annual meeting it will be necessary to have paid on your pledge the membership requirement of $120 and to fill out the application for membership. Membership forms were mailed out last week and should be returned to the Secretary, The Dexter Memorial hospital, Box 282, Dexter.

There will only be one vote for each pledge card. On all pledges other than those by one individual, the name and address of the person from the group authorized to exercise the vote must be specified on the application, officials emphasized. The person authorized to exercise a vote must be 21 years of age and a member of the group who made the pledge which he is to vote.

The annual membership meeting will be held Feb. 10 at the Hickory House restaurant beginning at 7:30 p.m. Prior to this meeting a Dutch-treat dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. Directors have been enlarged to 15 members, and at the annual meeting, the six new directors will be elected, with at least one from the Bernice area, one from the Essex area and one from the Bloomfield area.

Fund
Reforms
Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has renewed a call for political fund-raising reforms urged upon Congress four years ago by President John F. Kennedy.

The subject is one Johnson had not pressed since moving to the White House. After two years of silence on the matter, he welded the reform proposals into his State of the Union message.

"As the process of election becomes more complex and costly," he said, "We must make it possible for those without personal wealth to enter public life without being obligated to a few large contributors."

To do that, Johnson proposed a tax break for people who make political contributions. Given today's fund-raising pattern, a tax break for the small donor could be a boon to Republicans. The GOP reports increasing success with small givers.

Democrats, on the other hand, have become more dependent on big contributions. In the last presidential election, the Democrats raised $1 million more from $1,000-and-up contributors than did the Republicans.

Johnson said he wants to broaden the participation of the people, and stimulate small contributions. He coupled that proposal with a call for stern new laws to guarantee full disclosure of political money and its sources.

Past Congresses have shown little zest for this undertaking, even though present federal law requires reports on only a slender fraction of the contributions and costs involved in television-age elections.

Candidates for House and Senate are required to report their campaign spending — but some successful contenders have filed accountings which show no outlays at all.

Current law has been interpreted as requiring an accounting only of contributions and spending by the candidate himself. In fact, most campaign spending is handled by state or congressional district committees in behalf of the candidate.

That means campaign spending filed in Washington may show only a tiny slice of the actual expenses involved in a House or Senate race.

Johnson said he wants local and state campaign committees brought under the federal disclosure law.

At the same time, he promised legislation to change what he called unrealistic limits on contributions. There is a $3-million ceiling on fund raising and expenditures by a single, national political committee, and a $5,000 limit on the amount anyone can donate to a single candidate or political committee.

In practice, this has led to multiple committees and to contributions channeled through state and local organizations.

In the last presidential race, the Republicans raised and spent their money through nine separate campaign committees, the Democrats through 16.

Each was entitled to raise as much as $3 million. Johnson said he wants to "prohibit the endless proliferation of committees."

Republican leaders have urged the same course, in calling for repeal of the $3-million limit.

Speaking of Opinions: "Opinions cannot survive if one has no chance to fight for them."

Sullivan Show Dull

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Now that the first frenzy over long-haired singing groups is on the wane, CBS' Ed Sullivan Show is in dire need of something fresh and stimulating to brighten up that Sunday night corner of television.

Sullivan's tried-and-true format calls for a bill consisting of many acts, each one on stage a short time. Nowadays it often seems less a feat of talent than a series of appetizers. Sunday night, Sullivan's 43 minutes of air time, not counting the commercials, was jammed with nine acts plus a longish on-stage introduction of a pro football star.

Some of the performers were scarcely warmed up before they were hustled off.

The show's big production number came from the Broadway show, "Funny Girl," plus a number by its new star, Mimi Hines. This was fun, but Miss Hines who sings well, did the number inconspicuously clad in the uniform of a World War I soldier.

NBC's "Frank McGee Reports," which has evolved from last season's awkwardly titled "Sunday" show, comes at 5 p.m. and is a most pleasant half-hour as it takes a leisurely look at two or three matters of public interest — not necessarily the top headlines of the week.

In Sunday's show there was a short film story about three captured North Vietnamese. This was followed by a much longer treatment of the air pollution problems of the nation, focused particularly on a town harassed by foul odors from an animal — food factory. Finally there was Edwin Newman, NBC's lively and intelligent New York critic-at-large, presenting an amusing description of the joys and problems of a Broadway "first night." It was a very nice half-hour.

This was followed by another Telephone Hour with Donald O'Connor and Anthony Newley sharing the host chores. Newley had most of the singing to do, and O'Connor, of course, did a lot of dancing. It was a tuneful, light-footed show with a bit of everything from tap dancing to early American musical comedy.

CBS will chop its "Hollywood

Membership forms were mailed out last week and should be returned to the Secretary, The Dexter Memorial Hospital, Box 282, Dexter.

There will only be one vote for each pledge card.

On all pledges other than those by one individual, the name and address of the person from the group authorized to exercise the vote must be specified on the application, officials emphasized. The person authorized to exercise a vote must be 21 years of age and a member of the group who made the pledge which he is to vote.

The annual membership meeting will be held Feb. 10 at the Hickory House restaurant beginning at 7:30 p.m. Prior to this meeting a dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. Directors have been enlarged to 15 members, and at the annual meeting, the six new directors will be elected, with at least one from the Bernie area, one from the Essex area and one from the Bloomfield area.

Q—What language is spoken by the gypsies?

A—Most of them speak the Romany language of their forefathers, which is based on ancient Sanskrit or Prakrit.

Q—Which of all the planets has the smallest orbit?

A—Mercury.

Q—How is an orchestra different from a band?

A—A true orchestra is made up mainly of stringed instruments, with fewer wind and percussion instruments. A band usually has only wind and percussion instruments.

Fund Reforms Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has renewed a call for political fund-raising reforms urged upon Congress four years ago by President John F. Kennedy.

The subject is one Johnson had not pressed since moving to the White House. After two years of silence on the matter, he welded the reform proposals into his State of the Union message.

"As the process of election becomes more complex and costly," he said, "we must make it possible for those without personal wealth to enter public life without being obligated to a few large contributors."

To do that, Johnson proposed a tax break for people who make political contributions. Given today's fund-raising pattern, a tax break for the small donor could be a boon to Republicans. The GOP reports increasing success with small givers.

Democrats, on the other hand, have become more dependent on big contributions.

In the last presidential election, the Democrats raised $1 million more from $1,000-and-up contributors than did the Republicans.

Johnson said he wants to broaden the participation of the people, and stimulate small contributions. He coupled that proposal with a call for stern new laws to guarantee full disclosure of political money and its sources.

Past Congresses have shown little zest for this undertaking, even though present federal law requires reports on only a slender fraction of the contributions and costs involved in television election campaigns.

Candidates for House and Senate are required to report their campaign spending — but some successful contenders have filed accountings which show no outlays at all.

Current law has been interpreted as requiring an accounting only of contributions and spending by the candidate himself. In fact, most campaign spending is handled by state or congressional district committees in behalf of the candidate.

That means campaign spending filed in Washington may show only a tiny slice of the actual expenses involved in a House or Senate race.

Johnson said he wants local and state campaign committees brought under the federal disclosure law.

At the same time, he promised legislation to change what he called unrealistic limits on contributions. There is a $3-million ceiling on fund raising and expenditures by a single, national political committee, and a $5,000 limit on the amount anyone can donate to a single candidate or political committee.

In practice, this has led to multiple committees and to contributions channeled through state and local organizations.

In the last presidential race, the Republicans raised and spent their money through nine separate campaign committees, the Democrats through 16.

Each was entitled to raise as much as $3 million. Johnson said he wants to "prohibit the endless proliferation of committees."

Republican leaders have urged the same course, in calling for repeal of the $3-million limit.

Speaking of Opinions: "Opinions cannot survive if one has no chance to fight for them."

Five Experts Discuss Birth Defects-- Second Greatest Destroyer of Life

DR. DANIEL BERGSMAN, director of the medical department, The National Foundation - March of Dimes, says the birth defects problem is so "overwhelming" that the U.S. needs at least twice the present number of March of Dimes Treatment Centers.

Five outstanding authorities discuss vital aspects of birth defects--the nation's greatest destroyer of human life, next to heart disease. In dramatic terms they tell what is being done by March of Dimes-supported research scientists and others to reduce the shocking toll of a quarter of a million defective American babies born every year. They outline what is being done to help those infants for whom prevention will come too late. Watch for this penetrating, easy-to-understand series.

DR. JOHN E. ALLEN, medical director of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Treatment Center, Cleveland (Ohio) Metropolitan General Hospital, predicts that in the next decade science will develop means of preventing many types of birth defects.

DR. ROBERT E. HALL, associate professor of obstetrics, Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York City, warns that the indifference of many expectant mothers to prenatal care raises definite risk of "unexpected complications."

DR. VIRGINIA APGAR, director of the division of congenital malformations of The National Foundation-March of Dimes, says medical scientists believe today that revolutionary advances in birth defects research are nearer than many people think.

When they had prayed, the place was shaken where they were assembled together; and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and they spoke the word of God with boldness.

PRAYER: O Lord teach us to pray. Fill Thy church with such an outpouring of the Holy Spirit that we may witness with boldness to Thy power in this age of challenge. In our Redeemer's name. Amen.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: You have had many strange letters in your column but I'll bet mine will be the strangest.

In 1941 I was 17. We lived in a city near an Army camp and I became involved with a soldier. I had a child out of wedlock. I gave up the child for adoption when he was 10 days old. The father was transferred before I knew I was pregnant and I lost track of him.

Two years later I married a fine man who knew about my past and has never once mentioned it. Our first child was born the following year -- a beautiful little girl.

Jennifer (not her real name) is 21 and a junior in college. She wrote that she is in love and would like to bring the chap home for us to meet. Ann, we met him last weekend and I am in a state of shock. This young man is the image of the father of my out-of-wedlock child.

Should I ask Jennifer to find out if the boy was adopted? If he was should I tell her he may be her half-brother? Could they have normal children if they married? Please help me -- I am going to pieces.

--RX

Dear RX: I checked with several authorities and they all agree that the chances are millions to one against the boy being your son. One consultant suggested that your sense of guilt might be magnifying the resemblance in your mind's eye.

If the boy is Jennifer's half-brother -- most unlikely in the light of those fantastic odds -- they have a good chance of having normal children provided neither has an inheritable disease such as diabetes or hemophilia. Say NOTHING to Jennifer. It would serve no useful purpose.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teen-ager who just had her eyes opened up. My friend asked me to go with her when she took her written test for a driver's license. I'll be taking my test next year and I wanted a preview.

My friend flunked the test and was very mad at the officer who did the grading.

She accused the motor vehicle department of throwing in trick questions so people wouldn't pass. The officer said, "Better to flunk the test on paper than on the highway. We don't GIVE away licenses here. Our job is to protect your life and the lives of others against drivers who don't know the rules."

The officer then went on to explain that thousands of people are killed every year because they didn't know what a sign meant -- or the OTHER fellow didn't know.

I realize for the first time the importance of studying and understanding the driver's manual. When I take my test I'll know it backward and forward. Thanks for your time.

--WISER NOW

Dear Wiser: Thanks for YOUR time. Your letter may change the lives of some of our readers -- or even save a few.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please say something about women with high and puffy hair-do's that obstruct the view in the theater, the movies, at lectures, concerts and in church? I'm sick of rubber-necking to see over a mountain of ratted hair.

hair which stands eight inches above the head and five inches out at the sides. Thank you.

--CUT OFF BY CRAZY COIFFURES

Dear Cut Off: In the days when women wore enormous hats they used to flash a message on the screen which read: "Will the ladies kindly remove their hats?" It hardly seems practical to suggest today that the ladies be asked to kindly lower their hair-do's -- since those high jobs are frequently the result of several hours (not to mention dollars) spent at the beauty salon.

I will print your letter, however, in the hope that some of the Pompadour Paulas and Bouffant Betsys will see it and take the hint.

If excessive drinking is wrecking your health or destroying someone you love, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

World's Weekend War, Peace And Politics In Spotlight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

War, peace, politics and civil rights, often entwined, dominated the news of the world over the weekend.

A relative lull developed in the fighting in Viet Nam but there was no slowdown in the U.S. peace offensive. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Ambassador W. Averell Harriman talked with South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky in Saigon. Rusk then flew to Manila for talks with Philippine leaders before his return to the United States. Rusk and Ky said in a communique they saw no indications that North Viet Nam was ready to take concrete steps toward peace. Meanwhile, rumors of a possible coup against Ky heightened tension in Saigon.

Elsewhere, Japan and Italy pushed forward the peace drive, and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey disclosed that he and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin talked in New Delhi of the whole scope of affairs in this troubled world.

Pope Paul VI also appealed anew for peace, praying for negotiations to end the war as he addressed a crowd in St. Peter's Square, Vatican City. But Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev in a speech pledged "ever-growing assistance" to North Viet Nam. And North Viet Nam again claimed the U.S. quest for peace was a smoke screen for enlarging the war.

In Nigeria, mutinous elements of the army staged a coup and a military officer emerged as the temporary strongman. He is Maj. Gen. Aguiyi Ironsi. Ironsi announced the suspension of major provisions of the Nigerian constitution and called for the formation of an interim military government in the British Commonwealth country.

Previous reports said that the civilian government had regained control within 24 hours. The Nigerian prime minister, Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, and his finance minister, Chief Festus Okotie Eboh, were still missing amid reports that they had been kidnapped by the military rebels.

Labor and politics got mixed in a war of words over the price of subway peace. While New Yorkers rode happily again after a 12-day transit strike, President Johnson said he felt the strike settlement price was too high. Republican Mayor John V. Lindsay defended the settlement and suggested that Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz knew the facts better than Johnson. Then Wirtz agreed with Johnson.

Civil rights and politics were another mixture, with a battle boiling over in the streets of Atlanta, Ga. Supporters of Julius Bond, a Negro denied his seat in the Georgia Legislature because of his anti-Viet Nam war stand, rallied at the state Capitol, led by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. About 50 demonstrators stormed state police.

Eight Republican Congress members also spoke out for seating Bond.

Vice President Humphrey said "the right to dissent is sacred" and no man should be denied a seat in a legislative body simply because he disagrees with the government's policies.

A memorial service in Hattiesburg, Miss., for a civil rights leader slain by a fire bomb swirled into an uproar that finally was eased by the pleas of another civil rights leader to the crowd of 500. In Tuskegee, Ala., state troopers were summoned on a standby basis Saturday after a group of young Negroes were accused of throwing rocks and bottles.

On Sunday, some 200 Tuskegee Institute students staged a silent march to the town's square.

In India, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, daughter of the late Jawaharlal Nehru appeared a strong favorite to win the post of prime minister.

In other developments, some 400 persons died in floods and landslides in Rio de Janeiro, a U.S. Air Force plane crashed into a mountain in Greece, killing six of the 10 aboard, and a Colombian airliner crash took 51 lives while 10 persons survived.

Viet Nam War Effort Impressive

WASHINGTON -- Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), who returned to Washington following six weeks in the Pacific area, including ten days in South Viet Nam, has started working on a report he will file with the senate armed services and foreign relations committee. He is a member of both committees.

Commenting on his visit to Viet Nam, Symington said that

Armed Forces

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. -- Airman S. Gene Taylor, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence C. Morris of Morehouse, Mo., has been selected for training at Amarillo AFB, Tex., as an Air Force supply specialist.

The airman, a 1963 graduate of Morehouse high school, recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Airman Taylor attended Southeast Missouri State College.

Airman Dennis Martin

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. -- Airman Dennis L. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Martin of 107 N. Elm, Charleston, Mo., has been selected for training at Keesler AFB, Miss., as an Air Force communications electronics specialist.

The airman, a 1965 graduate of Charleston High School, recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

CAMP PENDLETON, CALIF. -- Marine Private Frankie L. Johnson, son of Mrs. Vernie M. Johnson of 372 Magnolia Drive, Sikeston, Mo., completed individual combat training with the Second Infantry Training Regiment at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

The four-week course included over 200 hours of instruction under simulated combat conditions, small unit tactics in both conventional and guerrilla warfare, day and night combat, reconnaissance and combat patrolling, and the effective use of infantry weapons.

He will undergo four weeks of basic specialist training in his military occupational field. These occupational fields include artillery, infantry, motor transport and supply. Marines assigned duties with infantry sub-specialties, such as the machine gun, grenade launcher, rifle or mortar.

Marines assigned to highly technical specialties have been sent to a military technical school for their specialist training.

The Leathernecks bound for the Pacific will receive additional training at the Staging Battalion at Camp Pendleton, Calif. This training will emphasize jungle warfare, patrolling and civic action, based on experiences gained in Viet Nam.

BLTHTHEVILLE AFB, ARK. -- Staff Sergeant Johnny D. Holt, a native of Alma, Ark., and the Strategic Air Command's World Wide Pistol and Rifle champion, has been assigned to Blytheville Air Force Base.

A competitor in marksmanship since 1961, Sergeant Holt has attended the Strategic Air Command World Wide Air Police and Carbine matches for the past five years, and for the past five years has been an individual champion.

With this record, Sergeant Holt is the only man in competition history to triumph in the SAC Pistol and Carbine Competition more than twice.

In 1961 and 1962 he won the all Air Force Police Championship competition. For the 1961 honor he was presented a trophy by General Curtis E. LeMay, in Washington, D. C. Presenting the 1962 award to Sergeant Holt was General Thomas S. Powers, in Omaha, Neb.

For his 1964 victory in the Inspector General's competition, Sergeant Holt was presented a .38 caliber revolver by General John P. McConnell.

A class one competition, Sergeant Holt has fired several perfect scores, and currently has a 298 average out of a possible 300 score.

He is married to the former Miss Frankie L. Young, also of Alma.

CAMP PENDLETON, CALIF. (FHTNC) -- Marine Private Charles W. DeJournett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Riley DeJournett of Route 1, Essex, Mo., completed individual combat training with the Second Infantry Training Regiment at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Samuel David Patmor died at Sikeston on January 5, aged 85 years, nine months and four days.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at the Albritton Funeral Home for James A. Ferguson, 66 years old, who died of a heart ailment Tuesday.

THE PRAYER

For Today From The Upper Room

When they had prayed, the place was shaken where they were assembled together; and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and they spoke the word of God with boldness.

PRAYER: O Lord teach us to pray, Fill Thy church with such an outpouring of the Holy Spirit that we may witness with boldness to Thy power in this age of challenge. In our Redeemer's name. Amen.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: You have had many strange letters in your column but I'll bet mine will be the strangest.

In 1941 I was 17. We lived in a city near an Army camp and I became involved with a soldier. I had a child out of wedlock. I gave up the child for adoption when he was 10 days old. The father was transferred before I knew I was pregnant and I lost track of him.

Two years later I married a fine man who knew about my past and has never once mentioned it. Our first child was born the following year -- a beautiful little girl.

Jennifer (not her real name) is 21 and a junior in college. She wrote that she is in love and would like to bring the chap home for us to meet. Ann, I met him last weekend and I am in a state of shock. This young man is the image of the father of my out-of-wedlock child.

Should I ask Jennifer to find out if the boy was adopted? If he was should I tell her he may be her half-brother? Could they have normal children if they married? Please help me -- I am going to pieces.

Dear Ann: I checked with several authorities and they all agree that the chances are millions to one against the boy being your son. One consultant suggested that your sense of guilt might be magnifying the resemblance in your mind's eye.

If the boy is Jennifer's half-brother -- most unlikely in the light of those fantastic odds -- they have a good chance of having normal children provided neither has an inheritable disease such as diabetes or hemophilia. Say NOTHING to Jennifer. It would serve no useful purpose.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teen-ager who just had her eyes opened up. My friend asked me to go with her when she took her written test for a driver's license. I'll be taking my test next year and I wanted a preview.

My friend flunked the test and was very mad at the officer who did the grading. She accused the motor vehicle department of throwing in trick questions so people wouldn't pass. The officer said, "Better to flunk the test on paper than on the highway. We don't GIVE away licenses here. Our job is to protect your life and the lives of others against drivers who don't know the rules."

The officer then went on to explain that thousands of people are killed every year because they didn't know what a sign meant -- or the OTHER fellow didn't know.

I realize for the first time the importance of studying and understanding the driver's manual. When I take my test I'll know it backward and forward. Thanks for your time.

Dear Ann: Thanks for YOUR time. Your letter may change the lives of some of our readers -- or even save a few.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please say something about women with high and puffy hair-do's that obstruct the view in the theater, the movies, at lectures, concerts and in church? I'm sick of rubber-necking to see over a mountain of ratted hair which stands eight inches above the head and five inches out at the sides. Thank you.

CUT OFF BY CRAZY COIFFURES

Dear Ann: In the days when women wore enormous hats they used to flash a message on the screen which read: "Will the ladies kindly remove their hats?" It hardly seems practical to suggest today that the ladies be asked to kindly lower their hair-do's -- since those high jobs are frequently the result of several hours (not to mention dollars) spent at the beauty salon.

I will print your letter, however, in the hope that some of the Pompadour Paulas and Bouffant Betsys will see it and take the hint.

If excessive drinking is wrecking your health or destroying someone you love, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Five Experts Discuss Birth Defects-- Second Greatest Destroyer of Life

DR. DANIEL BERGSMA, director of the medical department, National Foundation-March of Dimes, says the birth defects problem is so "overwhelming" that the U.S. needs at least twice the present number of March of Dimes Treatment Centers.

DR. ROBERT E. HALL, associate professor of obstetrics, Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York City, warns that the indifference of many expectant mothers to prenatal care raises definite risk of "unexpected complications."

DR. VIRGINIA APGAR, director of the division of congenital malformations of The National Foundation-March of Dimes, says medical scientists believe today that revolutionary advances in birth defects research are nearer than many people think.

Five outstanding authorities discuss vital aspects of birth defects--the nation's greatest destroyer of human life, next to heart disease. In dramatic terms they tell what is being done by March of Dimes-supported research scientists and others to reduce the shocking toll of a quarter of a million defective American babies born every year. They outline what is being done to help those infants for whom prevention will come too late. Watch for this penetrating, easy-to-understand series.

DR. JOHN E. ALLEN, medical director of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Treatment Center, Cleveland (Ohio) Metropolitan General Hospital, predicts that in the next decade science will develop means of preventing many types of birth defects.

DR. ROBERT E. HALL, associate professor of obstetrics, Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York City, warns that the indifference of many expectant mothers to prenatal care raises definite risk of "unexpected complications."

DR. VIRGINIA APGAR, director of the division of congenital malformations of The National Foundation-March of Dimes, says medical scientists believe today that revolutionary advances in birth defects research are nearer than many people think.

Today is Monday, Jan. 17, the 17th day of 1966. There are 348 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1706, Benjamin Franklin was born in Boston. Before his 84-year life ended, Franklin became famous as an author, printer, scientist, philosopher, diplomat and revolutionary war leader—perhaps the "first citizen of the world." America has produced.

On this date: In 1821, a Mexican land grant to Moses Austin opened Texas by colonization by pioneers north of the Rio Grande.

In 1893, the 19th president, Rutherford B. Hayes, died.

In 1917, the United States purchased the Virgin Islands from Denmark.

In 1942, advancing Japanese forces were 90 miles from Singapore.

In 1944, the Republic of Colombia signed the Declaration of the United Nations.

In 1946, Tokyo announced Japanese school children would be taught the reasons for their nation's defeat from material prepared by Americans.

Ten years ago—Communists led the start of six days of rioting in Bombay and Calcutta, India, in protest against the revision of the Bihar and Orissa boundaries.

Five years ago—Deposed Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba was transferred to what was called a safer prison in Jadotville from the one he had been in Thysville, Katanga Province.

One year ago—Eighteen men indicated in connection with the slaying of three civil rights workers near Philadelphia, Mississippi, were released under bond after pleading innocent.

Begin Dam Construction

CAIRO -- The first phase of building the $90 million high-lift dam on the Ohio River north of Cairo began this week.

U. S. Engineers from the Nashville, Tenn., district took core samples of the soil from the river bed, which will be studied. Work in this preliminary stage is expected to continue through this year, a spokesman said.

Actual building of the structure will be supervised by the Louisville district. Construction is expected to take about five years, he said.

Congress has appropriated $165,000 for the preliminary planning of the dam, and more than $1.5 million is expected to be spent during the coming fiscal year, he added.

The dam is one of eight major construction projects of Alexander and Pulaski counties.

ON A RECENT TRIP out West, my husband and I shared a table in the dining car with a young man from Oregon, who told us that O. agon is the greenest, the most progressive, the friendliest, the most civilized, the most healthful -- in short, the greatest state in the union. Later I asked my husband if he knew what the young man's business was. "I'm not sure," he replied. "Oregon-grinder, I guess."

Carol Hintze Homemaker

DEXTER -- Dexter high school's 1966 homemaker of tomorrow is Carol Hintze. She scored highest in a written knowledge and attitude examination taken by senior girls Dec. 7, 1965, and is now eligible for state and national scholarship awards.

Carol has already earned a special award pin from the program's sponsor.

Test papers of all school winners in the state are being judged and a state homemaker of tomorrow runner-up will be selected soon. The state homemaker of tomorrow will receive a $1,500 college scholarship, and her school will be awarded a complete set of encyclopedias.

The second-ranking girl in the state will receive a $500 educational grant.

Next spring, the state homemakers of tomorrow from every state and the District of Columbia, each accompanied by a school advisor, will join in an expense-paid educational tour of Colonial Williamsburg, Va., and Washington, D. C. Then, the 1966 All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be announced at a dinner in Washington.

Morgan Man of Year In Dexter

DEXTER -- New goals for the Chamber of Commerce, and new programs of work, to "keep Dexter progressing and growing" were outlined by Lehman Godwin as he became the 1966 president of the civic organization.

The annual meeting was held at the Catholic Hall with a near-capacity crowd in attendance.

Godwin, in taking over the duties from Joe Weber, pledged to work closely with the city government and other civic groups, to "keep up the good work that has been accomplished in 1965".

Godwin outlined as his goals (1) the establishment of a regular office for the Chamber of Commerce with a full-time secretary; (2) work toward proper zoning for the community; (3) work toward the extension of the city limits; (4) continued close contact with existing industry to help them grow and expand; and (5) contact with prospective new industry.

Highlight of the evening's program was the announcement of the "Man Of The Year" award, presented annually through the cooperation of the Cape Girardeau Chamber of Commerce. The person named is selected by a secret committee of local persons and the identity of the individual is a secret until the annual meeting.

Homer Morgan, Dexter civic leader, businessman and a leading figure in the recent hospital fund drive was named "Man of the Year" for 1965.

New officers installed, in addition to Godwin, were Percy Clippard, first vice-president; Robert Blankenship, second vice-president; W. L. Arnold, secretary-treasurer; and board members Thurston Hill, Tom Ross, Gordon Hart, and Berry Holder. Weber, as immediate past president, also automatically becomes a member of the board.

Since the theme for 1965 was "emphasis on industry", displays of various products produced in Dexter have been arranged. These included displays from the Elder Manufacturing Company, International Hat Company, Monarch Feed Mills, Swift and Company and the Brown Shoe Company of Bernie. Speaker was Col. E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, new Superintendent of the state highway patrol.

landscaped with colorful flowers, he added, Henry Helms, the custodian, was cited by Hunter as having done a superb job of upkeep once the project had been initiated.

But exterior beauty was only part of the standards needed to win the award. The interior had to pass a fire inspection, he said, and objects such as bulletin boards were checked for neatness and thoroughness.

He said that he had full cooperation from all postal employees in the beautification project and that it had been a group effort.

Hunter added that the post-office effort had been undertaken in connection with a beautification project started throughout the East Prairie community.

East Prairie Post Office Beauty Noted

EAST PRAIRIE -- East Prairie Postmaster, Robert Hunter has been cited by Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien as the recipient of a citation for "superior work in beautification" of the postoffice here.

The postoffice was selected from 2,600 postoffices in region 3, which includes Missouri, Arkansas and Iowa.

Hunter and his family will fly to Washington, D. C., Wednesday to participate in ceremonies conducted by the postmaster general. The ceremony will honor Hunter and 13 postmasters who were also chosen as winners from the other 13 districts in the country.

The award is part of the natural beauty program for appearance of building and grounds launched by Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

The selection of the East Prairie postoffice was made by regional director, John F. Dee. The building was inspected June 16 and found to meet all the specifications set by the beautification program, Hunter said.

The postmaster said that the grounds had been seeded and that rich green grass had developed at the time of the inspection. The grounds were also

High Liver Joins List Of Wanted

WASHINGTON -- Earl Ellery Wright, a high living ex-convict with many aliases, currently charged with robbing banks in Ohio and Maryland of over $110,000 during 1965, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted FUGITIVES."

Wright allegedly robbed the Coral Hills Office of the Suburban Trust Company, Coral Hills, Md., of $61,203 on the afternoon of June 21. Then, on the afternoon of November 17, 1965, he allegedly held up the Ashville Bank, Ashville, Ohio, of $49,289, threatening bank employees with death if they refused to cooperate.

He is also suspected of participation in other bank robberies in different parts of the country and has additionally been charged with theft from interstate shipment, following a burglary in Huntington, West Virginia, in April, 1964, wherein cash, candy, musical instruments and accessories were stolen. A Federal warrant for his arrest on this charge was issued at Huntington, West Virginia, on February 19, 1965.

A Federal warrant charging him with the Ashville, Ohio, bank robbery was issued at Columbus, Ohio, on November 18, 1965, and another Federal warrant was issued at Baltimore, Maryland, on December 1, 1965, charging him with the Coral Hills, Maryland, bank robbery.

Wright, who is reportedly of high intelligence and is said to enjoy a luxurious standard of living, has a criminal record which began in Tennessee in 1942 when, as a juvenile, he was charged with stealing a bicycle.

Since then he has been convicted of larceny, interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle, automobile theft, fraudulent checks and parole violation and has been confined to state and Federal penitentiaries in California, Georgia, Ohio and Washington.

He was last imprisoned at the U. S. Penitentiary, McNeil Island, Washington, being released therefrom on October 1, 1963.

Wright is a white American, reportedly born at Wheelwright, Kentucky, on July 16, 1929. He is 5'9" to 5'10" tall, weighs 160 to 180 pounds, has a medium build, light complexion, blue eyes and dark blond hair. He has a deep 1/2" scar in the center of his forehead. He has worked as a truck driver, construction worker, bookkeeper, laborer, mechanic, farmer and clerk. He reportedly enjoys staying in high quality motels, frequenting popular night clubs and associating with socially prominent individuals. Wright is said to be a very good pool player, that advances into the money for high stakes and an avid gin rummy player who often follows tournaments. He reportedly frequently travels with girl friends, favors luxury-class cars, rarely drinks alcoholic beverages, smokes filter tip cigars, considers himself a "ladies' man," often becomes acquainted with female employees at bus stations, is known as a neat and conservative dresser and likes hand jewelry, wearing several rings at a time.

Wright reportedly carries a revolver in the glove compartment of his car, was allegedly armed with a revolver in two bank robberies and should be considered extremely dangerous.

Should any person have information concerning Earl Ellery Wright, he is requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of local telephone directories.

Moore Services Held at Parma

PARMA -- Services for C. H. Moore, 76, who died Sunday, Jan. 9, at the Randolph Nursing Home in Hayti, were Wednesday in the Watkins and Sons Chapel. The Rev. Leon Bell conducted the services. Burial was in the Memorial Park cemetery in Malden.

Moore was born March 26, 1889, and spent his childhood at Ellinsore.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Pearl Whitaker of Parma, and a brother, Claude Moore of Malden.

Foundry Foreman Dies in St. Louis

ELLSINORE -- Earl George LeGrand, 58-year-old foreman at the American Car and Foundry Co., in St. Louis and a resident of route one, Ellsinore, died at 11:55 Friday night at his home following a seven-month illness.

A life-long resident of Butler County, LeGrand was born March 29, 1907, he married the former Mrs. Mabel Dobbs, who survives.

Birth Defects Challenge Being Met, March of Dimes Physician States

By VIRGINIA APGAR, M.D., M.P.H.
Director, Division of Congenital Malformations
The National Foundation-March of Dimes

For many dreary and despairing decades, scientists faced continual discouragement as they probed into the causes and prevention of birth defects. One after another, clues that had seemed promising to embryologists and others dissolved into insignificance.

Hundreds of thousands of babies continued to be born, year after year, with missing arms and legs, with crippling spinal defects, and with other serious disorders that affected sight, hearing, the heart, even mentality. In the United States alone, it is estimated that more than 250,000 infants are born each year with serious defects.

The problem seemed beyond solution.

It is still, in my view, the most challenging medical problem facing mankind. But it is fair to say that today, under the combined assault of modern-day geneticists, embryologists, molecular and cellular biologists, and other research scientists, more and more light is being shed on some of the mysteries that have surrounded the causes of birth defects.

Here and there, a few pieces in the puzzle now seem to fit together with some kind of logic and order where only a few years ago confusion and disorder ruled. Each little discovery or development today encourages researchers in this area to remain at their test tubes and microscopes with reasonable expectation of adding eventually to our knowledge of what lies behind these catastrophic births.

What has brought about this progress--small as it may seem though it may seem to many of us--after so many years of perplexity and resignation?

Hope Revived

Two developments occurred in the 1950's which combined to revive mankind's flagging hopes that advances into this unknown territory were possible.

One was the disclosure that certain major disorders were caused by what are called inborn errors of metabolism in which something goes wrong with the body's chemistry. The inherited disease of phenylketonuria (PKU), which can lead to mental deficiency, was pinpointed as being caused by such an error. Another hereditary disease,

March of Dimes Skills

In 1958, The National Foundation-March of Dimes entered the fight against birth defects because, among other reasons, it was the greatest unmet medical problem of childhood. At that time, this voluntary health organization had already made solution of the polio problem possible by financing development of the Salk vaccine. In research, as well as in patient aid, The National Foundation-March of Dimes expected to utilize in the fight against birth defects many of the same skills its grantees and staff had sharpened in the assault on polio.

The decision of this respected health agency to mount a campaign against congenital malformations had already made effect of arousing wide and spontaneous support for an organized drive, based on its wealth of invaluable experience.

How the outlook has changed in only a few years! Today The National Foundation-March of Dimes has 37 research grants in operation at the nation's leading laboratories, and it finances 57 March of Dimes birth defects centers. If the urgently needed funds can be raised, the number of these centers will be doubled.

Research Under Way

Birth defects research covers a lot of ground. There are epidemiological studies under way any kind of decay, which usually appears as a soft discolored area on the peel at either end may affect flavor, making it taste flat and somewhat bitter.

Fresh grapefruit will be best if stored in the refrigerator. Chilling enhances and brings out that happy flavor.

From a nutritive standpoint,

looking into the effects of hereditary and of various prenatal conditions on the unborn child. There are also under way today basic research studies in the hereditary material of life, called DNA, and in the behavior of cells, which are the units from which our bodies are made. Thus, our research is now making headway toward understanding both hereditary and non-hereditary causes of birth defects.

Our nation recently went through its worst German measles epidemic in history. Several March of Dimes grantees are following very closely the effects of this epidemic on the infants of expectant mothers exposed to the disease during the first three months of pregnancy. Other virus infections are also suspected and may be the causes of certain birth defects.

Research scientists are also studying the effects of various chemicals and drugs on the litters of animals. In this atomic age, the effects of radiation are getting a great deal of attention, and we are looking forward to studies of the possible effects on the newborn of air and water pollution and agricultural pesticides.

We are a long way from our objective of prevention of birth defects. But after centuries of suffering and crippling, of abysmal ignorance and neglect, medical science now pursues relentlessly even the remotest clue to the causes of birth defects, and it extends better and better treatment to their tiny victims.

Begin Dam Construction

CAIRO -- The first phase of building the $90 million high-lift dam on the Ohio River north of Cairo began this week.

U. S. Engineers from the Nashville, Tenn., district took core samples of the soil from the river bed, which will be studied. Work in this preliminary stage is expected to continue through this year, a spokesman said.

Actual building of the structure will be supervised by the Louisville district. Construction is expected to take about five years, he said.

Congress has appropriated $165,000 for the preliminary planning of the dam, and more than $1.5 million is expected to be spent during the coming fiscal year, he added.

The dam is one of eight major construction projects of Alexander and Pulaski counties.

ON A RECENT TRIP out West, my husband and I shared a table in the dining car with a young man from Oregon, who told us that O. gon is the greenest, the most progressive, the friendliest, the most civilized, the most healthful -- in short, the greatest state in the union. Later I asked my husband if he knew what the young man's business was. "I'm not sure," he replied. "Oregon-grinder, I guess."

Morgan Man of Year In Dexter

DEXTER -- New goals for the Chamber of Commerce, and new programs of work, to "keep Dexter progressing and growing" were outlined by Lehman Godwin as he became the 1966 president of the civic organization.

The annual meeting was held at the Catholic Hall with a near-capacity crowd in attendance. Godwin, in taking over the duties from Joe Weber, pledged to work closely with the city government and other civic groups, to "keep up the good work that has been accomplished in 1965".

Godwin outlined as his goals (1) the establishment of a regular office for the Chamber of Commerce with a full-time secretary; (2) work toward proper zoning for the community; (3) work toward the extension of the city limits; (4) continued close contact with existing industry to help them grow and expand; and (5) contact with prospective new industry.

Highlight of the evening's program was the announcement of the "Man Of The Year" award, presented annually through the cooperation of the Cape Girardeau Chamber of Commerce. The person named is selected by a secret committee of local persons and the identity of the individual is a secret until the annual meeting.

Homer Morgan, Dexter civic leader, businessman and a leading figure in the recent hospital fund drive was named "Man of the Year" for 1965.

New officers installed, in addition to Godwin, were Percy Clippard, first vice-president; Robert Blankenship, second vice-president; W. L. Arnold, secretary-treasurer; and board members Thurston Hill, Tom Ross, Gordon Hart, and Berry Holder. Weber, as immediate past president, also automatically becomes a member of the board.

Since the theme for 1965 was "emphasis on industry", displays of various products produced in Dexter have been arranged. These included displays from the Elder Manufacturing Company, International Hat Company, Monarch Feed Mills, Swift and Company and the Brown Shoe Company of Bernie. Speaker was Col. E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, new Superintendent of the state highway patrol.

The proposed evening flight will leave here at 6:30 p.m. and arrive in St. Louis at 7:20 p.m. The Saturday schedule will not change. One Saturday flight leaves here at 12:30 p.m. and arrives in St. Louis at 1:50 p.m. with a stop at Marion, Ill.

The present schedule for the other six days calls for one flight non-stop from Cape Girardeau to St. Louis, leaving at 12:30 p.m. and arriving there at 1:20 p.m. Another flight leaves here at 7:58 p.m. and arrives in St. Louis at 9:20 p.m. with a stop at Marion. This flight does not operate on Saturday.

Under the new schedule, a daily, non-stop flight will leave St. Louis at 9:20 a.m. and arrive here at 10:15 a.m. except on Saturday. On Saturday a flight will leave St. Louis at 9:20 a.m. and arrive here at 10:47 a.m. with one stop at Marion.

Presently, the morning flight from St. Louis to Cape Girardeau leaves at 9:20 a.m. and terminates here at 10:42 a.m. It stops in Marion. The present evening flight leaves St. Louis at 7:20 p.m. and terminates here at 8:47 p.m. with a stop in Marion. The evening flight does not operate on Saturdays.

Carol Hintze Homemaker

DEXTER -- Dexter high school's 1966 homemaker of tomorrow is Carol Hintze. She scored highest in a written knowledge and attitude examination taken by senior girls Dec. 7, 1965, and is now eligible for state and national scholarship awards.

Carol has already earned a special award pin from the program's sponsor. Test papers of all school winners in the state are being judged and a state homemaker of tomorrow and runner-up will be selected soon. The state homemaker of tomorrow will receive a $1,500 college scholarship, and her school will be awarded a complete set of encyclopedias.

The second-ranking girl in the state will receive a $500 educational grant. Next spring, the state homemaker of tomorrow from every state and the District of Columbia, each accompanied by a school advisor, will join in an expense-paid educational tour of Colonial Williamsburg, Va., and Washington, D. C. Then, the 1966 All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be announced at a dinner in Washington.

"Stop worrying about your competition and start worrying about your customers. You've got a lot more customers than competitors. And your competitors never gave you a nickel's worth of business and never will."

landscaped with colorful flowers, he added. Henry Helms, the custodian, was cited by Hunter as having done a superb job of upkeep once the project had been initiated.

But exterior beauty was only part of the standards needed to win the award. The interior had to pass a fire inspection, he said, and objects such as bulletin boards were checked for neatness and thoroughness.

He said that he had full cooperation from all postal employees in the beautification project and that it had been a group effort.

Hunter added that the post-office effort had been undertaken in connection with a beautification project started throughout the East Prairie community.

Kiwanis Club Installs

DEXTER--Howard Dickinson, Dexter postmaster, became president of the Kiwanis club at a banquet meeting at the LaHub Cafe, attended by Kiwanians and their wives.

He succeeds Lehman Godwin as president. Other new officers include Bob Robins, first vice-president; Willis Comer, second vice-president; Dwight Russnoble, secretary; and L. E. Jeffress, treasurer.

Jack Stapleton, Jr., publisher of the Daily Dunklin Democrat at Kennett and president of the Missouri Mental Health Association, was the speaker for the banquet.

In his address, Stapleton pointed to many and various needs of Southeast Missouri and urged an end to petty competition among the various communities. He strongly urged that the entire area work together as a unit, since, he said, there is still much to be accomplished. He was particularly critical of the condition of Highway 25 -- a highway that runs directly through Southeast Missouri from Jackson to the tip of the Bootheel. Despite the improvement recently completed on the brief stretch from Dexter to Bloomfield, there is still much to be done he pointed out.

And this work will not be done unless the people involved work together as a unit. He described the road as a "disgrace" and said it was a safety hazard as well as a detriment to the further development of Southeast Missouri.

The new officers were installed by Lieut. Gov. Ed Cannon of Poplar Bluff.

High Liver Joins List Of Wanted

WASHINGTON -- Earl Ellery Wright, a high living ex-convict with many aliases, currently charged with robbing banks in Ohio and Maryland of over $110,000 during 1965, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted FUGITIVES."

Wright allegedly robbed the Coral Hills Office of the Suburban Trust Company, Coral Hills, Md., of $61,203 on the afternoon of June 21. Then, on the afternoon of November 17, 1965, he allegedly held up The Ashville Bank, Ashville, Ohio, of $49,289, threatening bank employees with death if they refused to cooperate.

He is also suspected of participating in other bank robberies in different parts of the country and has additionally been charged with theft from interstate shipment, following a burglary in Huntington, West Virginia, in April, 1964, wherein cash, candy, musical instruments and accessories were stolen. A Federal warrant for his arrest on this charge was issued at Huntington, West Virginia, on February 19, 1965.

A Federal warrant charging him with the Ashville, Ohio, bank robbery was issued at Columbus, Ohio, on November 18, 1965, and another Federal warrant was issued at Baltimore, Maryland, on December 1, 1965, charging him with the Coral Hills, Maryland, bank robbery.

Wright, who is reportedly of high intelligence and is said to enjoy a luxurious standard of living, has a criminal record which began in Tennessee in 1942 when, as a juvenile, he was charged with stealing a bicycle.

Since then he has been convicted of larceny, interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle, automobile theft, interstate transportation of fraudulent checks and parole violation and has been confined to state and Federal penal institutions in California, Georgia, Ohio and Washington.

He was last imprisoned at the U. S. Penitentiary, McNeil Island, Washington, being released therefrom on October 1, 1963.

Wright is a white American, reportedly born at Wheelwright, Kentucky, on July 16, 1929. He is 5'9 1/2" to 5' 10" tall, weighs 160 to 180 pounds, has a medium build, light complexion, blue eyes and dark blond hair. He has a deep 1/2" scar in the center of his forehead. He has worked as a truck driver, construction worker, bookkeeper, laborer, mechanic, farmer and clerk. He reportedly enjoys staying in high quality motels, frequenting popular night clubs and associating with socially prominent individuals. Wright is said to be a very good pool player, a compulsive gambler who bets for high stakes and an avid gin rummy player who often follows tournaments. He reportedly frequently travels with girl friends, favors luxury-class cars, rarely drinks alcoholic beverages, smokes filter tip cigars, considers himself a "ladies' man," often becomes acquainted with female employees at bus stations, is known as a neat and conservative dresser and likes hand jewelry, wearing several rings at a time.

Wright reportedly carries a revolver in the glove compartment of his car, was allegedly armed with a revolver in two bank robberies and should be considered extremely dangerous. Should any person have information concerning Earl Ellery Wright, he is requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of local telephone directories.

The problem seemed beyond solution.

It is still, in my view, the most challenging medical problem facing mankind. But it is fair to say that today, under the combined assault of modern-day geneticists, embryologists, molecular and cellular biologists, and other research scientists, more and more light is being shed on some of the mysteries that have surrounded the causes of birth defects.

Here and there, a few pieces in the puzzle now seem to fit together with some kind of logic and order, yet only a few years ago confusion and disorder ruled. Each little discovery or development today encourages researchers in this area to remain at their test tubes and microscopes with reasonable expectation of adding eventually to our knowledge of what lies behind these catastrophic births.

What has brought about this progress--small's pace in tempo though it may seem to many of us--after so many years of perplexity and resignation?

Two developments occurred in the 1950's which combined to revive mankind's flagging hopes that advances into this unknown territory were possible.

One was the disclosure that certain major disorders were caused by what are called inborn errors of metabolism in which something goes wrong with the body's chemistry. The inherited disease of phenylketonuria (PKU), which can lead to mental deficiency, was pinpointed as being caused by such an error. Another hereditary disease, only the finest grapefruit, look for firm fruit, which are springy to the touch. They should be well-shaped, round or slightly flattened, and heavy for their size. The skin should be thin and fairly smooth textured. Grapefruit may have a reddish brown or reddish yellow color over its normal color, but this russetting does not affect flavor.

Any kind of decay, which usually appears as a soft discolored area on the peel at either end may affect flavor, making it taste flat and somewhat bitter.

Fresh grapefruit will be best if stored in the refrigerator. Chilling enhances and brings out that happy flavor.

From a nutritive standpoint, a half grapefruit can supply most of a day's Vitamin C requirements, and there are only 75 calories in half a medium-sized grapefruit.

There's a variety of uses for these flavor favorites. Served raw or broiled, in sections or as juice, it can be used as an appetizer, salad, dessert, or as a meat or fish garnish.

looking into the effects of hereditary and of various prenatal conditions on the unborn child. There are also under way today basic research studies in the hereditary material of life, called DNA, and in the behavior of cells, which are the units from which our bodies are made. Thus, our research is now making headway toward understanding both hereditary and non-hereditary causes of birth defects.

Our nation recently went through its worst German measles epidemic in history. Several March of Dimes grantees are following very closely the effects of this epidemic on the infants of expectant mothers exposed to the disease during the first three months of pregnancy. Other virus infections are also suspect and may be the causes of certain birth defects.

Research scientists are also studying the effects of various chemicals and drugs on the litters of animals. In this atomic age, the effects of radiation are getting a great deal of attention, and we are looking forward to studies of the possible effects on the newborn of air and water pollution and agricultural pesticides.

We are a long way from our objective of prevention of birth defects. But after centuries of suffering and crippling, of abysmal ignorance and neglect, medical science now pursues relentlessly even the remotest clue to the causes of birth defects, and it extends better and better treatment to their tiny victims.

Research Under Way Birth defects research covers a lot of ground. There are epidemiological studies under way
